Christian Political Action in an Age of Revolution Guillaume Groen Van Prinsterer, 2015-11-11 Why do Christians not see that the prevailing spirit of our times has its origin and raison d'être in a rejection of revealed truth Why do they not see that the overthrow of the religious political and social order was not the result of a revolutionary blip but of a revolutionary condition and that perpetual revolution always has been and always will be the inevitable consequence of the denial of man's dependence on the God of nature history and the Gospel Why do they not see that this evil cannot be brought to an end by merely attacking the symptoms It has to be torn up by the roots Why do they not see that the only antidote for systematic unbelief is faith Why do they not see that the anti-revolutionary principle is nothing other than the Protestant Christian principle the Reformation principle It alone through the Gospel can realize whatever there is of truth and goodness in these revolutionary utopias and so save both church and state from cover material

Christian Political Activism at the Crossroads William R. Stevenson, 1994 This volume illumines the discussion being carried on between the religious right with its concern for moral responsibility in politics and the issue-oriented activists who are concerned with how Christians in America address human rights and hunger issues By bringing together both Christian scholars and activists from nearly all points of the political continuum this book offers a rare glimpse into the reality of Christian diversity on the political task The media often suggests a monist interpretation of Christian politics This book shows both the vitality and plurality of Christian politics in America The book covers the historical background activist perspectives organizational structures and participant characteristics with essays by Frank Roberts David O'Brien Ruth Tucker James Reichley Delton Franz Betty Coats Lucille Taylor Bruce Buursma Robert Zwier Allen Hertzke James Guth Lyman Kellstedt Corwin Smidt Stephen Monsma and concludes with a suggestion of a new direction by James Skillen of the Association for Public Justice

Christian Political Action in an Age of Revolution G. Groen van

Prinsterer, Colin Wright, 2022 This outline of Christian political action was written by the nineteenth-century pioneer of the genre the Dutchman Guillaume Groen van Prinsterer Groen not only developed a political philosophy based solidly in Reformation truths but he also formed a political party to bring those truths to bear in the political forum of his day Then as now the battle was against the Revolution Against the Revolution there is only one antidote the Gospel To proclaim and elaborate this truth was Groen van Prinsterer's life work This volume never before published in English is an adept summary of it

Penning, 1984 Christianity and Contemporary Politics Luke Bretherton, 2011-09-13 Congratulations to Luke Bretherton on winning the 2013 Michael Ramsey Prize for Theological Writing for Christianity and Contemporary Politics Relations between religious and political spheres continue to stir passionate debates on both sides of the Atlantic Through a combination of theological reflection and empirical case studies Bretherton succeeds in offering timely and invaluable insights into these crucial issues facing 21st century societies Explores the relationship between Christianity and contemporary politics through case studies of faith based organizations Christian political activism and welfare provision in the West these case studies assess initiatives including community organizing fair trade and the sanctuary movement Offers an insightful informative account of how Christians can engage politically in a multi faith liberal democracy Integrates debates in political theology with inter disciplinary analysis of policy and practice regarding religious social political and economic engagement in the USA UK and continental Europe Reveals how Christians can help prevent the subversion of the church and even of politics itself by legal bureaucratic and market mechanisms rather than advocating withdrawal or assimilation Engages with the intricacies of contemporary politics whilst integrating systematic and historical theological reflection on political and economic life Church, State, and Citizen Sandra F. Joireman, 2009-06-04 Christians are often portrayed as sharing the same political opinions and the same theological foundations for their actions Yet from the time of the early church believers have held a variety of perspectives on the relationship between church and state and what constitutes legitimate political behavior for Christian citizens Thoroughly Christian political beliefs run the gamut from disavowal of any political responsibility to a complete endorsement of government policies and the belief that the state has been divinely appointed In Church State and Citizen Sandra F Joireman has gathered political scientists to examine the relationship between religion and politics as seen from within seven Christian traditions Catholic Lutheran Reformed Anabaptist Anglican Evangelical and Pentecostal In each chapter the historical and theological foundations of the tradition are described along with the beliefs regarding the appropriate role of the state and citizen While all Christian traditions share certain beliefs about faith e g human sin salvation Christ s atonement and political life e g limited government human rights the incompleteness and partiality of all political action there are also profound differences The authors discuss the contemporary implications of these beliefs both in the United States and in other areas of the world where Christianity is showing increasing vigor

Discipleship Between Creation and Redemption Philip LeMasters,1997 This provocative study argues that the believers church should draw on Catholic Reformed and Lutheran thought to find a solid basis for Christian political action The book believes that a believers church ethic has points of continuity with the quest for social justice in the larger society Rather than separating discipleship from political life or uncritically baptizing political projects the believers church may appeal to natural law as a basis for cooperation with others toward the end of a more just society The volume draws upon various historical theologians and a variety of contemporary figures to affirm a God given moral capacity in humans that makes a tolerably just political order possible

The Promise of Social Enterprise Mark Sampson,2022-07-26 Is social enterprise yet another example of the expansion of the market into all areas of life and society in this case the marketization of poverty Or does it offer genuine hope as part of a solution to some of the challenges facing contemporary society and as an example of an economy of mutuality Framing this question theologically does it offer the potential of faithful economic practice The Promise of Social Enterprise makes the case that how we answer this depends on the language we use to describe and perform social enterprise Arguing for the need to move beyond the narrow and reductionistic logic of mainstream economics the economic nature of the language of gift and mutuality is explored Drawing on the theological framework of Pope Benedict XVI and the work of John Barclay on Paul s understanding of the social implications of the Christ gift this book considers the contribution that a theology of gift with its incongruity and mutuality makes to the theory and practice of social enterprise

Religion - Politics - Evangelism Purna Chandra Jena,2015-11-24 This book seeks to show how religion is controlled by political ideologies and how evangelism is moulded and manipulated by the demands of the dominant political order of the day Out of his experience as a Christian in India the author challenges churches and congregations to participate in political action as an expression of their commitment to evangelism and to a better society

Religion and Politics in the United States Kenneth D. Wald,Allison Calhoun-Brown,2007 Religion and Politics in the United States Fifth Edition offers a comprehensive account of the role of religious ideas institutions and communities in American public life While maintaining that religion is too politically potent to be left out or consigned to the margins in accounts of American politics Wald and Calhoun Brown also argue against the common tendency to treat religion as the dominant force in politics today Early topics include the nature and persistence of religion in the United States its contribution to the Founding and the continuing debate over the role of religion in government and law Following a discussion of how religious factors encourage political action the book concludes by discussing basic political attitudes and behavior among members of mainstream American religious traditions and minority religious communities defined by ethnicity race gender and sexual orientation The new edition greatly expands coverage of various religious minorities with a new chapter on politics and religion among African Americans Latinos Muslim Americans Latter Day Saints Mormons and other faith traditions There is larger focus on how religion influences the politics of local communities

The Christian Advocate, 1927 New Day Begun R. Drew Smith, 2003-07-02 This collection discusses African American churches involvement in post civil rights era political culture with regard to faith based services black nationalism evangelism and community development

Political Action Charles W. Colson, 1988 The Christian Right in the United States - Origin, Structure, and Political Activism Nils Schnelle, 2009-03 Thesis M A from the year 2008 in the subject Politics Region USA grade 1 50 Catholic University Eichst tt Ingolstadt language English abstract This thesis will address the political movement of the Christian Right one of the most controversial movements in the American political system Its critics have accused it of trying to establish a theocracy in the United States of trying to strip homosexuals of their civil rights and called it fascist to name but a few allegations Leaders of the Christian Right on the other hand have harshly attacked those they made out as advocates of secular humanism have accused them of anti Christian bigotry and have repeatedly employed extreme rhetoric when addressing their political adversaries Within about twenty five years the movement developed from almost complete political abstinence into a highly organized political force The subject is appealing for research for several reasons firstly it is a good example of how vivid and influential religion and religiously motivated political action still are in spite of the secularization theory widely adhered to in the respective period of time It is also still current as there has been some fluctuation in terms of activity and degree of organization but so far the Christian Right has not ceased to exist The goal of the thesis is to explore the emergence of the movement to portraint the developments that brought theologically conservative Protestants Evangelicals from isolation and retreat into a subculture to active and organized political involvement The central questions to be answered are linked to the controversy surrounding the movement 1 Has the Christian Right been trying to accomplish what its critics fear a theocracy and a Christian nation in which there would be no place for dissenters 2 Is the Christian Right a legitimate movement operating within the frame of the political system or is it set out to ultimately change
