Christianity Is Jewish:

Christianity Is Jewish Edith Schaeffer, 2012-01-30 Edith Schaeffer lovingly encourages Christians to embrace the Jewishness of their faith When the early church repudiated its Jewish roots the New Testament became disconnected from its Hebraic foundations in the Old Testament Edith Schaeffer presents a most convincing case for an unbreakable continuity in the flow of history from Genesis to Revelation Her book reveals the thread of redemption in its Jewish context and Christianity as a grafted vine rooted in Judaism The reader will hardly be able to miss the conclusion that the Christian gospel built on the foundation of the prophets and of the apostles is entirely Jewish We live in a time when Christians and Jews are confused about their true identity and mutual calling to each other This book deserves a re edition at a time of unrelenting persistence of anti Semitism when much of the world turns their backs on Israel and the Jews The global community of nations risks abandoning its Judeo Christian heritage This book s simple message may be what is needed to open the eyes of the Church to what Christianity owes to the Jews gratitude love and the knowledge of their Jewish Messiah as the true Passover Lamb

Jewish Perspectives on Christianity Fritz A. Rothschild, 1990 In his general introduction Fritz Rothschild quotes these memorable lines of the young Heinrich Heine Have we not endured each other As true brothers through the ages You endured that I kept breathing I endured your manic rages For centuries Jews as a minority in a Christian world have rarely if ever voiced their negative views of Christianity without first considering the consequences Still despite the long history of so many one sided debates and discussions Professor Rothschild finds in the five Jewish thinkers represented in this volume and the five Christian theologians who wrote the individual introductory essays evidence of a new relationship which he characterizes by the term mutuality Each of the five Jewish thinkers represents a particular Jewish outlook and each is concerned with what he believes to be the essential nature of Christianity as it appears to him from his historically and existentially conditioned perspective In turn each of the Christian respondents J Louis Martyn on Baeck Ekkehard Stegemann on Buber Bernhard Casper on Rosenzweig Bernhard Anderson on Herberg and John Merkle on Heschel deals with the question Which Judaism confronts here which type of Christianity The chief topics dealt with can be listed under the following headings 1 the person and significance of Jesus 2 the polarity of law and gospel works and faith human righteousness and divine grace 3 the place of the Hebrew Bible in Christianity and 4 the role of the church as the New Israel vis a vis the Jews as the Old Israel according to the flesh While the selections in this volume are for the most part forthright statements by forthright men Professor Rothschild offers a fascinating glimpse in his introduction of some of the private reservations of some of these Jewish thinkers and even blunt criticisms that never found their way into their published works The volume concludes with an extensive bibliography by and about the thinkers presented particularly
