Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, John Caldwell, 1989 Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, John Corbett, Fabrice Hergott, John Kelsey, Musée d'art moderne de la ville de Paris, 2012 Best known for patterned stamped and stenciled paintings that follow an austere aesthetic Christopher Wool born 1955 has expanded his vocabulary during the years since 2000 using his own images silkscreened or digitally treated as source material for subsequent works This handsomely designed volume published in conjunction with a major exhibition at the Musée d'Art Moderne de la Ville de Paris offers three renowned authors approaching Wool's recent paintings from different angles John Corbett analyzes Wool's navigation between jazz like improvisation and deliberate composition Fabrice Hergott focuses on the artist's dialogue with the surface as a subject of the paintings and John Kelsey digs into the artist's media savvy black and white painted images Gestures go viral escaping one painting and contaminating another A work recurs outside of itself sometimes in a partial or fragmented way always coming back remotely as another image thicker faster sharper Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, 1989 Christopher Wool: See Stop Run Christopher Wool, 2025-10-28 Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, Ann Goldstein, Museum of Contemporary Art (Los Angeles, Calif.), 1998 Christopher Wool John Corbett, 2019-02 Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, 2017-12-15 This book documents Christopher Wool's born 1955 2017 exhibition at Berlin's Galerie Max Hetzler at the center of which is a torso made out of pigmented concrete surrounded by large scale paintings and works on paper in which Wool works through his own oeuvre and references from art history The book also contains exhibition shots by Wool and comes with a dust jacket that unfolds to reveal a poster designed by the artist Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, Luhring Augustine (Gallery), 1990 Christopher Wool, Massive Pissed Love Richard Hell, 2015-10-01 A seminal collection of ruminations on art books and music by one of the sharpest minds and sensibilities in both punk rock and literature Richard Hell may best be known as a punk icon a founding member of seminal bands Television the Heartbreakers and The Voidoids but for decades he's been a prominent voice in American letters Through his novels Go Now and Godlike and his critically acclaimed autobiography I Dreamed I Was a Very Clean Tramp Hell has proven himself as a talented and insightful writer across many genres in many forms But one might argue that Richard's true genius lies in shorter form as a writer on culture Love comes in spurts Hell once sang and that could well describe the intensity of his penetrating and wickedly droll criticism Massive Pissed Love is a collection of Hell's ruminations on art literature and music among other things that's like a candy box of reading treats a bag of shiny marbles a cabinet of mementos and uncanny fetishes However one thinks of it it's a joy to read from start to finish and a deeply necessary addition to the oeuvre of one of the sharpest minds and sensibilities at work today Christopher Wool Christopher Wool, 2001 Since the late 1970s Christopher Wool has readdressed and expanded the process of painting In 9th Street Run Down he creates a complex fiction out of 44 large works on paper all made over the past year Wool started these painted silkscreens as studio sketches after his retrospective exhibits in Los Angeles Basel Pittsburgh and Geneva It was immediately clear that they would become an outstanding grouping of works embodying a special narrative that is very much a part of Wool s work As the critic Neville Wakefield has written to spend time amongst Wool s art is something akin to being caught in the compulsive and circular absurdity of a Beckett play The characters within a painting state their case with a simple and irrefutable logic A painting of a painting is still a painting Wool insists after all And yet like Beckett s Godot its importance let alone its existence may well be something that can never be quite confirmed Wool offers no reassurances to the contrary But in his own tireless vigil he brings to the activity particular and extraordinary worth

Christopher Wool Christopher Wool,2007 Published on the occasion of Christopher Wool s 2008 exhibition at New York s Skarstedt Gallery this concise collection of 17 black and white pattern paintings made between 1987 and 2000 set alongside 10 installation shots serves as historic documentation of works that have rarely been shown or published but which remain perennially influential Born in Chicago in 1955 Wool came to prominence in New York in the 1980s with his graffiti like text paintings which are full of slang song lyrics and action painting drips Loved and loathed by critics Wool has been described by the Village Voice s Jerry Saltz as a very pure version of something dissonant and poignant His all or nothing caustic cerebral ambivalent belligerent gambit is riveting and even a little thrilling It s what makes him one of the more optically alive painters out there
