AQA A2 English Language (B) Unit 3 Developing Language

This Answers book provides suggestions for some of the possible answers that might be given for the questions asked in the AQA A2 English Language (B) Unit 3 workbook. They are not exhaustive and other answers may be acceptable, but they are intended as a guide to give teachers and students feedback. The student responses for the longer essay-style questions are intended to give some idea about how the exam questions might be answered and are based on actual student responses in previous exams. The examiner commentaries (underlined text) have been added to give you some sense of what is rewarded in the exam and which areas can be developed. Again, these are not the only ways to answer such questions but they can be treated as one way of approaching questions of these types.

Section A Language acquisition

Introductory texts

Text A Child–parent conversation extracts

1 a Phonology: At this age, it is quite common to hear children producing sounds in ways that do not match the standard pronunciation, so in these examples we can see substitution of 'd' for 'th' sounds and the deletion of unstressed syllables with the word 'potato'. Many of the other sounds are produced consistently and accurately.

b Lexis and semantics: In terms of words and their meanings, the nouns used by the child tend to focus on concrete objects around her and the names of people she knows, while her verbs are connected to actions or for use in the formation of questions (on which more later).

c Grammar: There is a fair bit to look at in terms of syntax here (word order and sentence construction) and some morphology too (grammatical elements of words).

Syntax: ranges between statements (declaratives) and questions (interrogatives), showing some flexibility in syntax. There are some issues with creating the past tense, for example using the easily remembered and quite fixed form of 'did' as opposed to the irregular 'it'. Many children often go through a stage where they use 'did' with nearly all verbs that they wish to put into the past tense. She often creates questions that use ellipsis of the auxiliary verb and focus on the main verb instead. For example, 'Why you washing dem?' where the main verb is 'washing', but the auxiliary 'are' is omitted.

Morphology: the child has over-generalised the plural '-s' morpheme and added it to 'man' to create 'mans', a typical example of this kind of virtuous error at this age.

d Pragmatics and functions of language: The functions of what the girl says are quite literal and do not contain anything particularly subtle or implied in terms of meanings, which we might expect to see in older children. The questions relate to events and actions around her (heuristic in function), and the statements fit the basic model of describing events (representational).
