Matthews Grant, 2019-05-16 The traditional doctrine of God's universal causality holds that God directly causes all entities distinct from himself including all creaturely actions But can our actions be free in the strong libertarian sense if they are directly caused by God W Matthews Grant argues that free creaturely acts have dual sources God and the free creaturely agent and are ultimately up to both in a way that leaves all the standard conditions for libertarian freedom satisfied Offering a comprehensive alternative to existing approaches for combining theism and libertarian freedom he proposes new solutions for reconciling libertarian freedom with robust accounts of God's providence grace and predestination He also addresses the problem of moral evil without the commonly employed Free Will Defense Written for analytic philosophers and theologians Grant's approach can be characterized as neo scholastic as well as analytic since many of the positions defended are inspired by consonant with and develop resources drawn from the scholastic tradition especially Aquinas

Free Will and Theism Kevin Timpe, Daniel Speak, 2016 This volume presents a systematic exploration of the relationship between religious beliefs and various accounts of free will in the contemporary domain With a particular eye on how theological commitments might shape our views about the nature of free will a team of leading experts in the field explores an important gap in the current debate They focus their attention on this crucial point of intellectual intersection with surprising and illuminating results
