Shots Fired James Patrick McElvain,2006 The purpose of this study was to examine the relationship between officer involved shootings and citizen behaviors i e alcohol and or drug intoxication and prior arrests for violent criminal conduct Officer characteristics including gender age and race ethnicity were examined as control variables The theoretical basis for the analysis was developed around the intersectionality of two theories the theory of social disinhibition and that of routine activities Poisson regression models were fitted to data compiled from the Riverside County Sheriff Department's personnel and police shooting files for the years 1990 through 2004 During the study period the Sheriff's Department experienced a total of 186 officer involved shooting incidents which targeted 190 citizens Analysis showed no significant relationship between officer characteristics and police shootings once citizen behaviors especially prior violent criminal arrests were introduced to the models When citizen intoxication variables were examined along with officer characteristics the results illustrated that alcohol intoxicated citizens were targeted by police gunfire 3.4 times greater than sober citizens police used deadly force against citizens under the influence of drugs at a rate that was 3 times more than citizens who were not under the influence of drugs The expectation for police to shoot or shoot at citizens under the influence of a combination of alcohol and drugs was nearly 3 times greater than non inebriated citizens Moreover when examined along with officer characteristics citizens with prior arrests for violent criminal behavior were expected to be targeted by police gunfire 3.7 times the rate of citizens with no prior arrests for violence It was concluded that as a result of a citizen's tendency i e routine activity to commit violent crimes and consume alcohol and or drugs he/she is more likely to become uncooperative with law enforcement while disinhibited by the effects of his or her intoxicated state which significantly contributes to the police shooting incident Law and Society Steven Vago, 2006 For one semester undergraduate courses in Law and Society Sociology of Law Introduction to Law and a variety of criminal justice courses offered in departments of Sociology Criminal Justice and Political Science This book looks at the legal system and administrative criminal and civil law in the context of race class and gender Policing in America Robert H. Langworthy, Lawrence F. Travis, 1999 For Introduction to Policing Law Enforcement and specialization courses on policing at the freshman sophomore undergraduate level Written in a smooth style that promotes conceptual understanding and integration this intriguing text on policing in America uses a balance of forces metaphor throughout to help assimilate discussions centering material around a recurrent analytical theme that seeks to define police as a product of correlated social historical political legal individual and organizational forces Providing a detailed description of policing with probing analyses of current police and practice problems it covers the complexity of policing in America and offers a comprehensive survey of the different police and law enforcement agencies working in the country today
