Archaeology Versus Metal Detecting Peter G. Spackman, 2024-11-30 Examines the contentious relationship between archaeology and metal detecting revealing historical tensions and evolving practices This book offers a no holds barred insight into the often passionate sometimes controversial subject of tension and mistrust between the worlds of archaeology and metal detecting with the intent of shedding new light upon and bringing into the open some of the working practices procedures and thoughts which have fuelled an ill wind that flurries through levels of archaeological academia Beginning in the mists of history the author explores the birth of archaeological investigation from a Kings search the grave robbers through the antiquarian collectors museum artifact collections through to a profession which appears these days to rely upon the construction industry and its commercialism for survival Integrating various sources of information to highlight analytical information as well cultural social and economic intervention to form an unbiased argument The later appearance of metal detecting as a hobby which fired discontent distrust and deliberate efforts to either govern or ban the hobby This distrust is echoed by the author s extensive research which uncovered a deep set denial of the use by archaeologists of an innovative invention which has become an essential tool for artifact recovery the metal detector This hobby also listed as a sport boasts a practitioner membership of over thirty five thousand in the UK alone the history of which is covered in depth from the development of electro magnetism leading to an ever increasing number of inventions including machines for the detection of explosive devices which morphed into the metal detector as we know it today TRAC 2008 Joep Hendriks, 2009-04-01 A larger than usual selection of papers from the annual TRAC conference Sessions included Supplying the Army Imperial communication The role of the deceased in Roman society Military identities and Experiencing space and place in the Roman world Markets, Minsters, and Metal-detectors Katharina Ulmschneider, 2000 Subtitled The archaeology of Middle Saxon Lincolnshire and Hampshire compared this study assesses and compares the historical and archaeological record of these two counties from the conversion of England in c 650 to Alfred s reign in 870 Detector Finds Gordon Bailey, 1997-09-01

Viking Identities Jane F. Kershaw, 2013-02-14 Viking Identities is the first detailed archaeological study of Viking Age Scandinavian style female dress items from England Based on primary archival and archaeological research including the analysis of hundreds of recent metal detector finds it presents evidence for over 500 brooches and pendants worn by women in the late ninth and tenth centuries Jane F Kershaw argues that these finds add an entirely new dimension to the limited existing archaeological evidence for Scandinavian activity in the British Isles and make possible a substantial reassessment of the Viking settlements Kershaw offers an interpretation of the significance of the jewellery in a broader historical context The jewellery highlights locations of settlement not commonly associated with the Vikings In contrast to claims of high levels of cultural assimilation the jewellery suggests that incoming groups maintained a distinct Scandinavian identity which was sometimes appropriated by the indigenous population Kershaw also addresses one of the great unanswered questions in the study of Viking Age settlements what about the women The interpretation of the jewellery challenges traditional perceptions of Viking conquest as an all male affair and brings into focus a population group which has until now been almost invisible Kershaw describes the objects and explores a number of themes related to their contemporary use including their date distribution and function in costume This body of material unknown 30 years ago is introduced to a public audience for the first time Including many object images and maps the study provides a practical guide to the identification of Scandinavian metalwork The splendour of power J.A.W. Nicolay,2014-01-01 From the 5th to the 7th century AD the southern North Sea area functioned as an important cultural and political bridge linking two power blocks the late Roman Empire and its Frankish successor kingdom to the south and the Scandinavian kingdoms to the north This book examines how the region s intermediary position is reflected in the jewellery and other ornaments of gold and silver found along the southern North Sea coasts and how it relates to the formation of kingdoms and the expression of group identity after the collapse of the West Roman Empire The book first discusses the history of earlier research into kingship around the southern North Sea and this is followed by a description of the individual research regions the northern and western Netherlands northern Germany and southeast England After presenting the valuables of gold and silver from graves hoards and settlement sites with their dating and contextual evidence in an extensive catalogue the author examines how such items circulated between and within early medieval societies were transformed into symbols expressing regional or supraregional identities and eventually ended up in the ground The various research themes come together in the synthesis in which elite networks around the southern North Sea are reconstructed and the expression of ethnic or other group identities among the members of such networks is considered Finally in an epilogue the finds from the North Sea region are confronted with the nature and composition of the Staffordshire hoard For the first time not only presenting but also interpreting the superb collection of valuables from the southern North Sea area as a whole this book makes compulsive reading for anyone interested in the fascinating world of early medieval Europe Viking Age Aristocratic Residences in Northern Europe Mads Ravn,2024-12-06 Viking Age Aristocratic Residences in Northern Europe explores the dynamic political and social landscapes of Northern Europe from AD 600 to 1000 This comprehensive volume delves into the aristocratic centres that played a pivotal role in shaping the Viking Age offering fresh perspectives on royal power landscape of power defence and societal organization Featuring new archaeological data from major sites like Errits Munkebo Bakke BirkaKorshamn Borre Tinghaug Rendelsham etc it challenges traditional views on Viking Age kingdoms and their rulers proposing a nuanced understanding of itinerant kingship local differences and its impact on local and regional governance Bringing together leading scholars from across Europe this anthology uncovers the multifunctionality and strategic importance of these sites revealing their role not just in local defence but also in the collection of tribute production of luxury goods and as centres of political and ritual activities Drawing parallels with Anglo Saxon England and the Carolingian Empire the book widens the concept of aristocratic power in the Viking Age This book is an essential read for anyone interested in Viking Age archaeology medieval history and the intricate connections between geography power and society in Northern Europe Archaeological Finds Norena Shopland,2005 This is the essential handbook for anyone interested in archaeology and keen to learn more about identifying the artefacts they discover Not only does it help in distinguishing the various artefacts but it also explains how they can be dated
