Independence for Children Matthew Clayton, 2025-02-01 Independence for Children presents an alternative conception of parenting to those that have dominated our thinking about children and the family to date It offers an elaboration and defence of anti perfectionist parenting The central argument of this book is that as they develop children become entitled to adopt and pursue their own conceptions of religion and human well being As young children they are entitled to an upbringing that is informed by ideals and reasons they can later accept in the light of the religious or ethical values they go on to hold as adults In short parents and others owe children an upbringing from which they are not alienated later in life Parental anti perfectionism suggests that parents should introduce their children to the various and sometimes competing views concerning our place in the universe and human flourishing and raise them to be respectful of the diversity of lifestyles within society But Matthew Clayton argues that parents have no right to steer their children towards particular religious doctrines or conceptions of human flourishing and that religious schools ought to be phased out This book addresses several questions in the philosophy of upbringing such as how we ought to understand the interests of children the moral claims of parents and what constitutes a valuable family life Clayton finishes by briefly exploring the implications of anti perfectionist morality for how parents ought to approach issues concerning work consumption gender and food

Fostering Resilience and Well-Being in Children and Families in Poverty Valerie Maholmes PhD, 2014-02-11 The number of children living in families with incomes below the federal poverty level increased by 33 percent between 2000 and 2009 resulting in over 15 million children living in poverty Some of these children are able to overcome this dark statistic and break the intergenerational transmission of poverty offering hope to an otherwise bleak outlook but this raises the question how In Fostering Resilience and Well being in Children and Families in Poverty Dr Valerie Maholmes sheds light on the mechanisms and processes that enable children and families to manage and overcome adversity She explains that research findings on children and poverty often unite around three critical factors related to risk for poverty related adversity family structure the presence of buffers that can protect children from negative influences and the association between poverty and negative academic outcomes and social and behavioral problems She discusses how the research on resilience can inform better interventions for these children as poverty does not necessarily preclude children from having strengths that may protect against its effects Importantly Maholmes introduces the concept of hope as a primary construct for understanding how the effects of poverty can be ameliorated At the heart of the book are interviews with family members who have experienced adversity but managed to overcome it through the support of targeted programs and evidence based interventions Student leaders provide unique perspectives on the important role that parents and teachers play in motivating youth to succeed Finally professionals who work with children and families share their observations on effective interventions and the roles of culture and spirituality in fostering positive outcomes Excerpts from these interviews bring research to life and help call attention to processes that promote hope and resilience This book will be invaluable for policymakers educators and community and advocacy groups as well as scholars and students in family studies human development and social work

In-patient Child Psychiatry Jonathan Green, Brian Jacobs, 2013-04-15 Essential Reading for clinicians managers and researchers in child psychiatry this authoritative book provides accessible coverage of essential theory as well as clear practical guidance to inpatient child psychiatric treatment This method of treatment has fallen out of fashion in recent years in favour of community based care but remains a useful setting for treating more seriously ill patients Bringing together contributions from across the profession this book covers the state of the art in current clinical treatment and sets a bold new agenda for the future arguing that inpatient child psychiatric units retain great potential for creative effective relevant treatment

Free to Learn Peter Gray, 2013-03-05 A leading expert in childhood development makes the case for why self directed learning unschooling is the best way to get kids to learn All kids love learning Most don't love school That's a disconnect we've avoided discussing until this lightning bolt of a book If you've ever wondered why your curious kid is turning into a sullen slug at school Peter Gray's Free to Learn has the answer He also has the antidote Lenore Skenazy author of Free Range Kids In Free to Learn developmental psychologist Peter Gray argues that in order to foster children who will thrive in today's constantly changing world we must entrust them to steer their own learning and development Drawing on evidence from anthropology psychology and history he demonstrates that free play is the primary means by which children learn to control their lives solve problems get along with peers and become emotionally resilient A brave counterintuitive proposal for freeing our children from the shackles of the curiosity killing institution we call school Free to Learn suggests that it's time to stop asking what's wrong with our children and start asking what's wrong with the system It shows how we can act both as parents and as members of society to improve children's lives and to promote their happiness and learning studies in this field some questions are still open for discussion such as the underlying mechanism of the association between parents cognition parenting practices and child development under a comprehensive system of parenting in a different demographic e g racial ethnic and economic contexts the changes of parenting accompanied with social change and era development the interaction of parenting and other factors within family system or other external systems e g school and so on For this Research Topic we adopt a broad definition of parenting including parents opinions and feelings about their own parenting roles and parents beliefs attitudes socialization goals and parenting practices toward their children The main aim is to explore the effect of parenting on child and adolescent development including self social emotional and academic development which can help further design effective intervention programs to promote children s and adolescents positive development via effective parenting We are particularly interested in manuscripts focusing on the following research subtopics 1 Theories and underlying mechanisms mediators or moderators to explain why and how could parenting affect child and adolescent development 2 The associations between parenting and child development in different demographic contexts or at different times 3 The similarities and discrepancies between children and parent report about parenting and its influence on the child and adolescent development 4 The specific effect of paternal parenting or the effect of co parenting on child and adolescent development 5 The potential interaction effect of parenting and other factors such as teacher peer grandparent and sibling on child and adolescent development Quantitative studies e g cross sectional and longitudinal studies cohort studies experimental studies intervention studies meta analysis and qualitative studies e g interview studies observational studies systematic review are both welcome
