Developing Programs In Adult Education:

Developing Programs in Adult Education Edgar J. Boone, R. Dale Saffrit, Jo Jones, 2002-05-10 The Second Edition of Developing Programs in Adult Education will serve as an indispensable guide for current and prospective adult educators in planning, designing, implementing, and evaluating accounting for adult education programs. Like the successful First Edition, this revised and expanded volume presents a conceptual programming model that draws from many concepts, constructs, and theories generated by adult educators and other scholars in closely allied disciplines. The updated model, field tested and validated, enhances and elaborates on the complex contextual relationships and processual actions represented in the original. The authors offer illustrative applications within varied organizational contexts and provide a panorama of both macro and micro perspectives and actions of a program planning process with examples from various fields of adult education practice. This innovative text is the definitive authority on one of the few theoretical models of the programming process based in systems theory merged with the practice ecology of adult education.

Developing Programs in Adult Education Edgar John Boone, 1992 This book represents the distillation of the author's knowledge and experience gained over twenty years of research teaching the practical application of his conceptual programming model for adult education.

Planning Programs for Adult Learners Rosemary S. Caffarella, Sandra Ratcliff Daffron, 2013-02-26 Planning Programs for Adult Learners Third Edition covers the development of adult education programs in clear, specific detail. This popular step-by-step guide contains information on every area of program planning for adult learners, from understanding the purpose of educational programs to obtaining suitable facilities to incorporating technology appropriately. For educators and practitioners for whom planning programs is a full-time responsibility or only a part of their jobs, as well as volunteers in a variety of organizations, will find this book to be an essential tool. Grounded in a variety of program planning models, the new edition includes new refinements to the 11-component interactive model, updated exercises, and examples from new settings. New material on the practical application of technology, discussion of instructional and program evaluation, a focus on critical managerial tasks, a new chapter on exploring the foundational knowledge of program planning, a new section on the ethical issues related to program planning.

Developing, Administering, and Evaluating Adult Education Alan B. Knox, 1980-11-05 Developing and Delivering Adult Degree Programs James P. Pappas, Jerry Jerman, 2014-02-25 This issue explores the growing field of adult degree programs and considers the theoretical underpinnings of such programs and hands on issues as curriculum, faculty, marketing, technology, financing, and accreditation, all with a goal of informing and equipping both scholars and practitioners. More and more adults who have been out of school for many years have turned to colleges and universities to complete undergraduate and graduate degrees that will make them competitive in the workforce, fulfill a professional requirement, or enrich them intellectually. Higher education institutions and many private organizations have responded to this demand by creating innovative degree programs aimed specifically at mature learners, students who want to self-design their educational programs and do not hesitate to change institutions if they believe their needs are not being met. This explosive growth in adult degree programs is largely the result of distance education technologies and the Internet. Other significant factors include the potential such programs have for providing additional revenue streams for institutions, the fierce competition from the private sector and other higher education institutions, and the rising interest in interdisciplinary programs. Each piece is framed within its larger context by the editors, and each section is accompanied by helpful reflection and discussion questions.

The Organization and Planning of Adult Education Theodore J. Kowalski, 1988-01-01. The heightened interest in and the rapid expansion of adult education has become a trend in a variety of environments. In order to serve these developing areas, educators, personnel, directors, as well as staff development specialists, require improved methods for planning learning activities within their own unique organizational contexts. In The Organization and Planning of Adult Education, Kowalski examines the issues created by providing a social service in diverse organizational settings and presents a format for initiating and developing adult education programs. In order to comprehend the complexity of the context of programming within an organization, two novel components are included: first, a typology of sponsoring organizations is presented This allows the reader to study program development in greater detail through a categorization of the sponsoring institutions Second organizational theory is applied to the process of programming in adult education To be successful the adult educator must be able to analyze both the existing organizational climate as well as to devise programs compatible with this environment Kowalski has written a valuable resource and guide for those faced with the responsibilities of planning adult education programs in their own particular setting
