ABSTRACT

Economic Empowerment of rural women is an emerging issue in the current time and when women are economically empowered, they empower the whole community as well as the nation too. In rural hill areas of Uttarakhand, the women are engaged in agriculture and allied activities which is only subsidiary and their work worth nothing in the terms of economic inputs in the family this unpaid and worthless work is an obstacle to the improvement in their life. The micro financing concept is a new ray of hope for women in the region through coordination and cooperative work in the form of Self-Help Groups (SHGs). The present paper is an attempt to discuss the role of these SHGs in rural hill areas of Uttarakhand in economically empowering them and which leads the path for their social and political empowerment as well as their overall development. For fulfilment of this purpose a well-structured interview schedule, personal and group interview of the respondents, and a pilot survey of the study area are the main tools to collect the data from the study area and data analysis software is used for finding the results of the present study.

Keywords: Women, Economic Empowerment, Self Help groups (SHGs)

INTRODUCTION

“Empowerment of women leads to the development of a good family, good society and, ultimately, a good nation.”
– Dr A.P.J. Abdul Kalam

In recent years the empowerment of a woman is a much-debated issue among societies. Can take the decisions (economic issues, health, nutrition & family planning etc.), having access to resources is the true sense meaning of women’s empowerment. FAO (2015)¹ describes that the empowerment of rural women is about expanding women’s assets and capabilities to participate in, negotiate with, influence, control and hold accountable the institutions that affect their lives. United Nations² believes that empowering women fuels thriving economies, spurring productivity and growth. Women’s empowerment has five components: women’s sense of self-worth; their right to have and to determine choices; their right to have the power to control their own lives, both within and outside the home; and their ability to influence the direction of social change to create a more just social and economic order, nationally and internationally³.

The empowerment of women can be categorised into five main parts – social, educational, economic, political and psychological.⁴ The present paper is a discussion on economic empowerment so if we discuss economic empowerment so we find that it promotes women’s ability to achieve their rights and well-being while also reducing household poverty.⁵ So economic empowerment is the capacity of women and men to precipitate in, contribute to and benefit from the growth process in ways that recognise the value of their contributions.⁶

The Study Area

The present study is being conducted in the Dhaula devi Development Block of District Almora. A Self-Help Group named ‘Kafal’ is selected and studied to fulfil the objective of the study. The studied Self-Help Group is registered with Micro Scale Industry in Uttarakhand and working for the last seven years. Mainly the group is engaged in cloth manufacturing as an economic activity for their earnings. This Self-help group has 35 women members. The SHG is formed seven years before with an aim of employment generation and making rural women self-dependent so that they can be economically independent which is the first step towards being empowered for
