Conversational Artificial Intelligence Romil Rawat, Rajesh Kumar Chakrawarti, Sanjaya Kumar Sarangi, Anand Rajavat, Mary Sowjanya Alamanda, Kotagiri Srividya, K. Sakthidasan Sankaran, 2024-03-06 This book reviews present state of the art research related to the security of cloud computing including developments in conversational AI applications It is particularly suited for those that bridge the academic world and industry allowing readers to understand the security concerns in advanced security solutions for conversational AI in the cloud platform domain by reviewing present and evolving security solutions their limitations and future research directions Conversational AI combines natural language processing NLP with traditional software like chatbots voice assistants or an interactive voice recognition system to help customers through either a spoken or typed interface Conversational chatbots that respond to questions promptly and accurately to help customers are a fascinating development since they make the customer service industry somewhat self sufficient A well automated chatbot can decimate staffing needs but creating one is a time consuming process Voice recognition technologies are becoming more critical as AI assistants like Alexa become more popular Chatbots in the corporate world have advanced technical connections with clients thanks to improvements in artificial intelligence However these chatbots increased access to sensitive information has raised serious security concerns Threats are one time events such as malware and DDOS Distributed Denial of Service assaults Targeted strikes on companies are familiar and frequently lock workers out User privacy violations are becoming more common emphasizing the dangers of employing chatbots Vulnerabilities are systemic problems that enable thieves to break in Vulnerabilities allow threats to enter the system hence they are inextricably linked Malicious chatbots are widely used to spam and advertise in chat rooms by imitating human behavior and discussions or to trick individuals into disclosing personal information like bank account details

Communities' Sustainable Experiences
Salvatore Di Dio,2024-06-24 THE TRUE DIMENSION OF CITIES IS NOT SPACE BUT TIME Konstantinos Doxiadis This shift from the spatial dimension to that of time places the focus on the individual s scale of perception How individuals spend their time shapes and infuses our environments with meaning influencing social dynamics and cultural values The Next Generation EU project exemplifies this shift by integrating lifestyle and environmental sustainability into urban planning The goal is to facilitate a just transition to a circular economy redefining not only the physical layout of cities but also the lived experience of its citizens within these evolving spaces The evolution from the Citizens Sustainable eXperience to the Communities Sustainable eXperience in the interdisciplinary research funded by the European Union underscores a significant progression from individual to collective experience UX rooted in human centered design focuses on optimizing products and environments for personal use and satisfaction CX expands these principles into the realm of more than human centered design where the focus extends beyond individual users to include wider community interactions and ecosystems Therefore the shift from UX to CX in urban planning and design is profoundly ethical It calls for a paradigm that prioritizes collective well being and sustainable development inclusivity and cooperation

Extended Mind for the Design of Human Environment Pier Luigi Sacco,Massimo Angrilli,Alessandro Crociata,Luciana Mastrolonardo,Costantini Marcello ,Francesca Ferri,2026-03-13 When in 1998 Andy Clark and David Chalmers proposed the extended mind concept which posits that cognitive processes and mental states can extend beyond the boundaries of an individual s brain and body some scholars started thinking about how the disciplines of design could interpret this concept to create environments that not only accommodate but also enhance the cognitive processes of their occupants fostering a harmonious and effective relationship between individuals and their surroundings But the relation between Architecture and the discipline of the mind is not new as early as the 1930s the Austrian American modernist architect Richard Neutra developed an interest in Physiological Psychology and asserted that through the design of his houses he could potentially alleviate his clients neuroses In his works and in his book Survival Through Design he developed his idea of what would become environmental psychology a discipline that is concerned with understanding how humans interact with their physical surroundings and investigates the human perception behavior and well being in relation to the physical environment In recent decades scholars like Juhani Pallasmaa have been advancing research at the intersection of neuroscience embodiment and the future of architectural design emphasizing the experience of the multisensory qualities of materials and space This Research Topic is addressed to architecture neuroscience psychology urban planning cognitive science and design studies and to all the disciplines interested in the extended mind paradigm in application to the built environment with the aim of investigate the implications and the potential for improving the mental well being and the cognitive processes of users through an innovative design approach Since architecture and the built environment impact and influence individuals in several ways it can be considered as an active part of our cognitive process and extended mind It appears quite natural therefore that architects and designers are worried about how buildings and open space shape our interactions with the world Urban economy as well deals with socioeconomic interactions in a spatial context A better understanding about how the built environment affects our behavior thoughts emotions and well being can help design buildings that support both mind and body We welcome original research papers case studies theoretical explorations and innovative design approaches that explore the interplay between the extended mind theory and the design of human environments Topics of interest include but are not limited to Conceptual frameworks linking the extended mind theory and environmental design The influence of external artifacts and of the biotic component of the urban system on cognition and perception in architectural and urban contexts Ethical considerations related to cognitive augmentation through the built environment Innovative design strategies that embrace the extended mind concept User centered approaches to designing spaces that facilitate cognitive extensions Technological advancements and their impact on cognitive interactions within designed environments The role of culture context and individual differences in shaping cognitive extensions The relation among cognitive representation of the urban space and socio economic interactions
