Kennedy,Will Mason-Wilkes,John McLevey,2022-05-12 The internet is changing the way that knowledge is made and shared Knowledge making in face to face settings is being replaced by information gathering from remote sources whose origins may be concealed but which can create an illusion of intimacy Though remote communication is beneficial in many ways modern societies would fail without it and though the tight boundaries of the face to face can be used for evil purposes such as criminal conspiracy if the overall trend to remote communication continues unchecked it could be disastrous for the future of democracy and the very idea of truth itself Too much reliance on remote communication threatens the core institutions of democratic societies We explain the change in technical detail from a systematic analysis of the workings of the face to face to a high level setting out of its dangerous political implications The analysis includes field studies reflexive examination drawing on the wide experience of the authors of the stickiness of the face to face in our own work and other institutions and network analysis which explains the illusion of intimacy that can be generated inadvertently or maliciously We look at the apparent effectiveness of techniques such as blockchain and the limits of their domain New information is provided about the malicious use of disinformation by foreign powers We dramatise the dangers to Western pluralist democracy through a personal accounting of the 2020 American election By drawing out the special features of face to face interaction and its constitutive role in creating societies with science as the icon the book sets out an agenda for civic education that can protect democratic institutions from the erosion of pluralism and the facile abandonment of trustworthy expertise The authors conclude by returning to the themes set out at the start of the book namely the crucial role played by trust in modern societies and the importance of face to face interactions in reproducing that trust and the democratic institutions in which it should be invested Looking Out Fiona McCallum,2024-04-01 Beneath the facade not everything
