Bureau of the Census, 1927 Suicide in East German Literature Robert Blankenship, 2017 The many fictional suicides in the literature of the German Democratic Republic have been greatly misunderstood The common assumption is that authoritarian oppression in East Germany led to an anomalous abundance of real suicides so that fictional suicides in GDR literature constitute a simple realistic reflection of East German society Robert Blankenship challenges this assumption by providing both a history of suicide in GDR literature and close readings of individual texts revealing that suicides in GDR literature rather than simply reflecting historical suicides contain rich literary attributes such as intertextuality haunting epistolary and unorthodox narrative strategies Such literariness offered subversive potential beyond suggesting that real people killed themselves in a communist country This first book length study of fictional suicides in East German literature provides insight into the complex and dynamic rhetoric of the GDR Blankenship s underlying claim is that GDR literature ought to be read as literature with literary methodology not despite the country s politically and rhetorically charged nature but precisely because of it Suicide in East German Literature
