Ambiguous Adventure:

Ambiguous Adventure Cheikh Hamidou Kane, 2012-04-10 The celebrated classic by a groundbreaking figure in African literature addresses a critical contemporary issue the collision of Islamic African values and Western culture Hailed by Chinua Achebe as one of the greatest African novels ever written this long unavailable classic tells the tale of young Samba Diallo a devout pupil in a Koranic school in Senegal whose parents send him to Paris to study philosophy But unknown to Samba it is a desperate attempt by his parents to better understand the French colonial forces transforming their traditional way of life Instead for Samba it seems an exciting adventure and once in France he excels at his new studies and is delighted by his new marvelous comprehension and total communion with the Western world Soon though he finds himself torn between the materialistic secularism and isolation of French civilization and the deeper spiritual influences of his homeland As Samba puts it I have become the two Written in an elegant lyrical prose Ambiguous Adventure is a masterful expression of the immigrant experience and the repercussions of colonialism and a great work of literature about the uneasy relationship between Islamic Africa and the West a relationship more important today than ever before Ambiguous adventure

Hamidou Kane (Cheikh), 1969 Utopian Generations Nicholas Brown, 2009-01-10 Utopian Generations develops a powerful interpretive matrix for understanding world literature one that renders modernism and postcolonial African literature comprehensible in a single framework within which neither will ever look the same African literature has commonly been seen as representationally naïve vis vis modernism and canonical modernism as reactionary vis vis postcolonial literature What brings these two bodies of work together argues Nicholas Brown is their disposition toward Utopia or the horizon of a radical reconfiguration of social relations Grounded in a profound rethinking of the Hegelian Marxist tradition this fluently written book takes as its point of departure the partial displacement during the twentieth century of capitalism's internal limit classically conceived as the conflict between labor and capital onto a geographic division of labor and wealth Dispensing with whole genres of commonplace contemporary pieties Brown examines works from both sides of this division to create a dialectical mapping of different modes of Utopian aesthetic practice The theory of world literature developed in the introduction grounds the subtle and powerful readings at the heart of the book focusing on works by James Joyce Cheikh Hamidou Kane Ford Madox Ford Chinua Achebe Wyndham Lewis Ngugi wa Thiong'o and Pepetela A final chapter arguing that this literary dialectic has reached a point of exhaustion suggests that a radically reconceived notion of musical practice may be required to discern the Utopian desire immanent in the products of contemporary culture

American Journal of Islam and Society (AJIS) - Volume 43 Issues 1-2 Achraf Guennouni Idrissi, Abdullah Martin Drury, Andi Herawati, Enes Karić, 2026-03-27 This issue of the American Journal of Islam and Society comprises three research articles that taken together explore the many ethical historical and conceptual resources through which Muslim thinkers and communities negotiate modernity power and knowledge across a wide range of diverse contexts Whilst the articles differ in method and focus ranging from decolonial philosophy and social history to political theology and metaphysical reflection they are united by a shared concern with mediation between spirit and politics memory and archive reform and tradition and human and more than human worlds Alongside these research articles the issue also includes a wide ranging selection of book reviews that include reviews of works discussing covenantal ethics in Islam Islamic media and revolutionary subjectivities in Egypt comparative theology and missionary encounters and much more besides It also includes a forum piece discussing Filip orluki s Hermeneutics and Exegesis in his Translation of the Qur n and an in memoriam obituary of Dr M Yaqub Mirza 1946 2025 written by his son Dr Younus Y Mirza

Islam and the West African Novel

Ahmed S. Bangura, 2000 Extending Edward Said s study of the Orientalist tradition in Western scholarship Bangura traces the origins of contemporary misunderstandings of African Islam to the discourse of colonial literature Western critics and writers he observes typically without access to Islam except through the colonialist tradition have perpetuated unfounded politically motivated themes

Of Irony and Empire Laura Rice, 2012-02-01 Of Irony and Empire is a dynamic thorough examination of Muslim writers from former European colonies in Africa who have increasingly entered into critical conversations with the metropole Focusing on the period between World War I and the present the age of irony this book explores the political and symbolic invention of Muslim Africa and its often contradictory representations Through a critical analysis of irony and resistance in works by writers who come from nomadic areas around the Sahara Mustapha Tlili Tunisia Malika Mokeddem Algeria Cheikh Hamidou Kane Senegal and Tayeb Salih Sudan Laura Rice offers a fresh perspective that accounts for both the influence of the Western instrumental imaginary and the Islamic holistic one

Postcolonial Fiction and Colonial Time Amanda Lagji, 2022-08-24 Postcolonial Fiction and Colonial Time reveals the fundamental constitutive role of the temporal dimensions of waiting in colonial regimes of time as well as in postcolonial framings of time history and agency Drawing from critical time and postcolonial studies alike this book argues that the temporality of waiting is an essential concept to theorise the relationship between time and power in postcolonial fiction across the long twentieth century one that illuminates the contradictory temporalities that underlie narratives of progress modernization and development The book contributes to the resurgence of interest in time within literary studies by demonstrating that waiting is also integral to postcolonial temporalities from anticolonial nationalist movements for independence to forms of reconciliation after conflict In addition to innovative readings of both classic and contemporary postcolonial novels this study challenges the dominant narrative of the twentieth century as a time of acceleration and movement by arguing for the centrality of waiting to time consciousness in the postcolonial world

African Women Writers and the Politics of Gender Sadia Zulfiqar, 2016-09-23 This work examines the work of a group of African women writers who have emerged over the last forty years While figures such as Chinua Achebe Ben Okri and Wole Soyinka are likely to be the chief focus of discussions of African writing female authors have been at the forefront of fictional interrogations of identity formation and history In the work of authors such as Mariama B Senegal Buchi Emecheta Nigeria Chimamanda Ngozi Adichie Nigeria Tsitsi Dangarembga Zimbabwe and Leila Aboulela Sudan there is a clear attempt to subvert the tradition of male writing where the female characters are often relegated to the margins of the culture and confined to the domestic private sphere This body of work has already generated a significant number of critical responses including readings that draw on gender politics and colonialism but it is still very much a minor literature and most mainstream western feminism has not sufficiently processed it The purpose of this book is three fold First it draws together some of the most important and influential African women writers of the post war period and looks at their work separately and together in terms of a series of themes and issues including marriage family polygamy religion childhood and education Second it demonstrates how African literature produced by women writers is explicitly and polemically engaged with urgent political issues that have both local and global resonance the veil Islamophobia and a distinctively African brand of feminist critique Third it revisits Fredric Jameson s claim that all third world texts are national allegories and considers these novels by African women in relation to Jameson s claim arguing that their work has complicated Jameson s assumptions
