Development of Chemistry-Based Screening Platform for Access to Mirror-Image Library of Natural Products Taro Noguchi, 2017-11-03

This thesis mainly describes the development of a screening process for a mirror image library of chiral natural products It demonstrates how by using mirror image proteins for the screening of available natural products unavailable mirror image isomers of natural products can be screened in a mirror process Moreover as mirror image isomers including target proteins and natural products are mainly prepared by means of chemical synthesis the screening strategy presented here suggests the importance of organic chemistry Natural products are commonly used as valuable resources for drug discovery However as they are mostly produced as single enantiomeric forms researchers have tested only natural products bearing one stereochemistry available in nature As natural products and their enantiomers have identical physicochemical properties and different biological activities mirror image isomers of natural products are promising candidates for novel medicinal resources In an effort to identify anticancer agents from the mirror image library chemical protein syntheses of some target oncoproteins MDM2 MDMX and Grb2 and their applications to the chemical array screening process were achieved In the course of this process the NP843 enantiomer which is the enantiomer of an tocopherol derivative was successfully identified as a novel MDM2 p53 interaction inhibitor These results clearly show that a mirror image library of chiral natural products represents an invaluable medicinal resource Accordingly the chemistry based screening strategy described in this thesis will be of great interest to a broad range of chemists involved in natural product medicinal and synthetic chemistry
