A Map Of Misreading:

A Map of Misreading Harold Bloom, 1980 In print since 1975 A Map of Misreading serves as a companion to Bloom's other seminal volume The Anxiety of Influence This finely crafted work offers instruction in how to read a poem using Bloom's theory that patterns of imagery in poems represent both a response to and a defense against the influence of precursor poems Influence as Bloom conceives it means that there are no texts but only relationships between texts He discusses British and American poets including Milton Wordsworth Shelley Keats Tennyson Browning Whitman Dickinson Stevens Warren Ammons and Ashbery A full scale reading of Browning's Childe Roland to the Dark Tower Came represents this struggle between one poet and his precursors the poem serving as a map for readers through the many versions of influence from Milton to modern poets Bloom centers the new preface upon a close account of Milton's elegy Lycidas which he considers the best poem of moderate length in English Bloom maps Lycidas as a superb creative misreading of the elegiac tradition from Theocritus to Spenser with some reference also to Shakespeare the inevitable source of influence anxiety for Milton This updated edition provides a new generation of readers with an essential work in the Bloom canon Book jacket

Deconstruction without Derrida Martin McQuillan, 2012-07-26 The future of deconstruction lies in the ability of its practitioners to mobilise the tropes and interests of Derrida's texts into new spaces and creative readings In Deconstruction without Derrida Martin McQuillan sets out to do just that to continue the task of deconstructive reading both with and without Derrida The book's principal theme is an attention to instances of deconstruction other than or beyond Derrida and thus imagining a future for deconstruction after Derrida This future is both the present of deconstruction and its past The readings presented in this book address the expanded field of deconstruction in the work of Jean-Luc Nancy Helene Cixous Paul de Man Harold Bloom J Hillis Miller Judith Butler Gayatri Spivak and Catherine Malabou They also necessarily address Derrida's own readings of this work McQuillan accounts for an experience of otherness in deconstruction that is has been and always will be beyond Derrida just as deconstruction remains forever tied to Derrida by an invisible indestructible thread
