Do animals or plants come first in succession? Why?

Animals come first because all plants require pollinators.

Plants come first because plants are more mobile than animals.

Plants come first because animals rely on them for food production.

Animals come first because animals are needed to regulate plant populations.

Plants and animals colonize the environment simultaneously.

Animals, 1906      Impersonating Animals S. Marek Muller, 2020-08-01 In 2011 in one sign of a burgeoning interest in the morality of human interactions with nonhuman animals a panel hosted by the American Association for the Advancement of Science declared that dolphins and orcas should be legally regarded as persons Multiple law schools now offer classes in animal law and have animal law clinics placing their students with a growing range of animal rights and animal welfare advocacy organizations But is legal personhood the best means to achieving total interspecies liberation To answer that question Impersonating Animals evaluates the rhetoric of animal rights activists Steven Wise and Gary Francione as well as the Earth jurisprudence paradigm Deploying a critical ecofeminist stance sensitive to the interweaving of ideas about race gender class sexuality ability and species author S Marek Muller places animal rights rhetoric in the context of discourses in which some humans have been deemed more animal than others and some animals have been deemed more human than others In bringing rhetoric and animal studies together she shows that how we communicate about nonhuman beings necessarily affects relationships across species boundaries and among people This book also highlights how animal studies scholars and activists can and should use ideological rhetorical criticism to investigate the implications of their tactics and strategies emphasizing a critical vegan rhetoric as the best means of achieving liberation for human and nonhuman animals alike

With the S.A.S. and Other Animals Andrew Higgins, 2011-12-01 A former British Royal Army Veterinary Corps officer recalls his adventures with the Special Forces in Oman during the 1970s in this military memoir In 1970 at the height of the Cold War the young Sandhurst trained Sultan Qaboos of Oman with secret British military backing took on the communist rebels in a fierce but little known war Along with regular British Army and contract officers the SAS played a key role in this bitterly fought but ultimately successful campaign The value of winning the Hearts and Minds of the local population was quickly recognized and this is where a select band of Royal Army Veterinary Corps officers came in The local economy was a primitive one based on agriculture and the author freshly qualified and by his own admission somewhat naive particularly in military matters found himself solely responsible for the veterinary care of a territory the size of Hungary Attached to D Squadron 22 SAS Andrew Higgins learnt how to respond to the Jebali people's love and concern for their animals who provided their livelihood goats camels sheep horses cattle even bears hunting birds and pedigree hunting dogs His firsthand experiences and anecdotes of life dealing with every level of Omani society from rulers to black slaves and their varied livestock make for wonderfully atmospheric and often amusing reading In short With the SAS and Other Animals is an unusual and potent mix of Special Forces action and veterinary experiences Readers may well conclude that it really shouldn't have happened to a vet even in a desert war Praise for With the SAS and Other Animals In a humorous style reminiscent of the James Herriot stories Andrew recalls his many adventures dealing not only with the native tribesmen and their animals but also with the Royal Household This book is very readable I found it hard to put down It gives a wonderful insight to local and expatriate life in the Middle East at the time Brigadier Paul Jepson QHVS It's not only fun to read but also rather good account of another largely forgotten campaign from a distinctly unusual perspective Country Life Magazine
