

Annotated Bibliography: MLA Style

What is an Annotated Bibliography? An annotated bibliography contains a works cited entry of a possible source followed by a short paragraph or summary (100 – 200 words) describing the work and how you will use it in your paper.

The diagram illustrates the formatting of an annotated bibliography entry. At the top right, a box labeled "Header" contains the text "Last Name 4". Below this, the title "Annotated Bibliography" is centered. The citation for the source is: "Baugh, L. Sue. How to Write Term Papers and Reports, VGM Career Horizons, 1992." This citation is enclosed in a box labeled "Center title". The annotation paragraph follows: "This textbook informs the reader about writing techniques. The book is separated into three main parts which discuss prewriting, revising, and editing. In addition, the author devotes a chapter to oral reports. Baugh also provides illustrations as well as two appendices discussing research and providing sample papers and reports. Also included are grammar explanations and style tips." A box labeled "Hanging indent" points to the left margin of the citation. A box labeled "Double space everything" points to the annotation paragraph. Marginal arrows indicate a 1-inch hanging indent for the citation and a 1-inch margin for the annotation.

To write an annotated bibliography:

Cite and annotate - Depending on the purpose of your bibliography, some annotations may:

- Summarize a source
- Assess or evaluate a source
- Reflect on the source's possible uses
- Discuss research methodology
- Reflect on strengths, weaknesses, or biases in the material

Consider the purpose of your annotated bibliography and/or your instructor's directions when deciding how much information to include in your annotations.

Tip: Annotated bibliographies are arranged alphabetically by the authors' last names and are indented so that the author's last name is the only text that is flush left.

Note: For information on formatting MLA citations, refer to MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 8th Edition. Individual instructor's specifications may vary, so check with your instructor before formatting and submitting your work.
