Francesco Bandarin, 2024-04-09 Changing Heritage presents the most comprehensive analysis of heritage issues available today. Critically analysing the complexity of the current and forthcoming issues faced by heritage, it presents insightful directions for the future. Drawing on the author's many years of experience working in senior positions at UNESCO, the book presents discussions of heritage sites all around the world. Today our cultural and natural legacies face significant threats due to social and economic developments, political pressures, and unresolved historical issues. This book delves into these threats from two distinct perspectives: internal tensions and external pressures. The internal tensions include the disregard for human rights and gender equality, the increasing exploitation of heritage for political purposes, the development of post-colonial perspectives, and the necessity to reassess the established notion of universal value. External pressures stem from global processes, unsustainable tourism, political conflicts, ethnic clashes, and religious strife that are causing destruction in numerous parts of the world. Examining the dynamics between heritage and these internal tensions and external pressures, Bandarin offers insights into the challenges faced and emphasises the imperative role of civil society in safeguarding the value of heritage for present and future generations. Changing Heritage explores a wide range of issues surrounding the crisis in heritage management on an international level. It will be essential reading for heritage scholars, students, and professionals.

Educating in the Arts Lindy Joubert, 2008-06-19 When I was first asked to edit this book, the researcher in me delighted at the opportunity to provide case studies from different cultural traditions with a team of like-minded fellow artists, educators, and researchers. But as the book took shape, I also discovered a true passion for its fundamental messages. Educating in the Arts: The Asian Experience talks about how landscapes and histories, farms and cities, the mountains, seas, and skies interact with lives and form the backdrop for stories that build and link the creative clusters of a place. This book has provided a wonderful opportunity to delve into the many worlds that incorporate the arts, particularly where the arts inform, inspire, and look for answers to difficult questions. Having attracted a broad range of contributors from every corner of the Asian region, a substantial collection of detailed information has emerged. Each story has an approach that is universal yet culturally unique. Close your eyes and see the colours, smell the smells, and hear the voices of the children against the background rhythms of song, birds, urban traffic, or whistling winds.

Trübner's Bibliographical Catalogues Kegan Paul, Trench, Trubner & Co, 1925

Hokusai's Project David Bell, 2007 This important new study on the great ukiyo-e artist Katsushika Hokusai is an in-depth appreciation involving close examination of some forty-four Hokusai prints of why his works appear in the way they do and how he evolved his own unique artistic style. In addition to a select bibliography, the book is supported by a valuable glossary of artistic terms.
