101 Talks For Children:

101 Talks for Children Marianne J. Shampton, 1985 A collection of short talks based on stories in the Old and New Testament and on Mormon doctrine and history Includes instructions on how to prepare and deliver these talks in public

The Joyful Child Peggy Davison Jenkins, 1996 Dr Jenkins presents a wealth of information and references dealing with positive self programming through parent teacher directed activities including games songs stories puppetry art music and movement

Child-directed speech. Modifications in linguistic input to children and their possible functions.

Philipp Rott, 2003-11-10 Seminar paper from the year 2001 in the subject English Language and Literature Studies Linguistics University of Duisburg Essen Foreign Languages course Hauptseminar Language Acquisition SS 2001 language English abstract Anyone who has seen and heard a child speak his her first words and who has noticed how much language determines the progress of a child in becoming independent of his her parents and in mastering interaction with others must have wondered why it is that children can fulfil such an obviously complex task in such a surprisingly little time with seemingly little effort It appears almost impossible that the child can achieve so much all by himself herself Thus quite frequently people consider the linguistic input that is available to the child as a crucial factor for the child s language acquisition It is no wonder that he has learned to speak so fast with so many people around speaking to him and showing him how to speak is an utterance I heard quite often when my son was at the age when he started producing his first words But did I really help him to learn language Of course I noticed my own speech modifications as well as that of other people when conversing with him But does this special register which nearly everyone at least in our western culture seems to adapt when addressing children really make a difference Do we even teach our children to speak I will not attempt to answer these questions in the present paper as much more research is needed in this area However I want to give an overview on the different features of the language used when addressing children It will be shown on which principles of modification these features are based and which functions they might serve for the child Moreover it will be argued that some features of the speech to children may possibly facilitate language acquisition but that the language used to them is not necessarily simplified language

Interthinking: Putting Talk to Work Karen Littleton, Neil Mercer, 2013-08-15 Written in an accessible and jargon free style Interthinking putting talk to work explores the growing body of work on how people think creatively and productively together Challenging purely individualistic accounts of human evolution and cognition its internationally acclaimed authors provide analyses of real life examples of collective thinking in everyday settings including workplaces schools rehearsal spaces and online environments The authors use socio cultural psychology to explain the processes involved in interthinking to explore its creative power but also to understand why collective thinking isn t always productive or successful With this knowledge we can maximise the constructive benefits of our ability to interthink and understand the best ways in which we can help young people to develop nurture and value that capability
