

even though that it was far from Charlemagne's original intentions. In his book "Charlemagne: Father of a Continent", Alessandro Barbero says: "Public acts that remained impressed in everyone's memory had enormous political significance. The act of Leo III placing the imperial crown on the head of the kneeling king was of this kind. The implications of this gesture could not have escaped a politician of Charlemagne's intelligence, and this is more than enough to explain his unease" (Barbero 2004, 94). In other words, it will not be an exaggeration, on our part, to suggest that the era of Feudalism in Europe had symbolically begun in 800 when Charlemagne was being crowned as Emperor by Pope. The person who had destroyed the remnants in Feudalism in 19th century Europe, Napoleon Bonaparte, was well aware of this fact, which is why he made a point in refusing Pope to place the crown of French Emperor upon its head. On the same page of the book, from which we have already quoted, Alessandro Barbero states: "A thousand years later another emperor, Napoleon, purposely invited the Pope to his coronation but made sure that he was to place the crown on its head" (Barbero 2004, 94). In the next part of this paper, we will discuss cultural, economic, and religious aspects of how the reign of Charlemagne and his son Louis the Pious had contributed to Europe embracing Feudalism, as a metaphysical mode of its geopolitical existence.

Carolingians and Feudalism

As we all know, the particularities of social hierarchy in Feudal society relate to how the relationship between feudal (noble landowners) and their vassals is being formed. The Carolingians' rise to power became possible because they have managed to acquire the ownership rights to vast territories within Frankia while serving Merovingians. It is namely because Carolingians were able to promise their supporters land, in exchange for helping them to depose Merovingians, which allowed them to succeed with becoming kings themselves. Therefore, the very technicalities of how Merovingians have been deposed, point out the fact that even as early as the middle of the 8th century, the social dynamics within Frankish society corresponded to the essential principles of Feudalism.

However, the state of "high Feudalism" is characterized by the tendency of the Church's clergy to continuously strive towards the acquisition of more and more land with the mean of encouraging nobles to leave their fiefdoms to "holy fathers", as the ultimate way of proving their commitment to some "higher cause", such as "liberation of Jerusalem from infidels", for example. It goes without saying, of course, that during Carolingians' reign in Frankia, the members of Christian clergy were not in a position of defying secular authorities yet; however, it was named during Charlemagne and Louis the Pious' "time in the office", that the extensive system of Christian parishes has been established, throughout the Empire.

Carolingian Essays:

Carolingian Essays Uta-Renate Blumenthal, 1983 Power and Its Problems in Carolingian Europe Stuart Airlie, 2018-02-06 A key theme in this collection of thirteen essays is the creative tension between the Carolingian dynasty and its aristocratic followers across 250 years. The first section explores the rising dynasty's attempts to consolidate its power through war and rewards. The second section focuses on the exercise of authority through a complex system of governance and representation and the pivotal role played by the courts of Charlemagne and his successors. In the third section we see the Carolingian system undergoing a crisis of legitimacy challenged by civil war, royal divorce and aristocratic encroachment on dynastic exclusivity. These essays anatomise the dynamics of power relations in the greatest empire of the early medieval west.

Women Writing Latin Laurie J. Churchill, Phyllis R. Brown, Jane E. Jeffrey, 2013-10-11 This book is part of a 3 volume anthology of women's writing in Latin from antiquity to the early modern era. Each volume provides texts, contexts and translations of a wide variety of works produced by women including dramatic, poetic and devotional writing. Volume Two covers women's writing in Latin in the Middle Ages.

Books, Scribes and Learning in the Frankish Kingdoms, 6th-9th centuries Rosamond McKitterick, 2024-10-28 The focus of this volume is the book production of the Frankish regions of Western Europe in the early Middle Ages. By means of a detailed scrutiny of individual manuscripts, groups of manuscripts and categories of texts, Dr McKitterick shows how they can be used to throw light on questions such as women and literacy, the knowledge of canon and secular law and the English contribution to the religious culture of the Continent. Some of the studies are more concerned with palaeography and the achievements of particular scriptoria; others look primarily at the fact of production, the dissemination of the texts and their implications for intellectual and cultural history. Au centre de ce volume se trouve la production du livre dans les régions franques d'Europe occidentale au début du Moyen Âge. Au travers d'un examen approfondi de manuscrits individuels, de groupes de manuscrits et de catégories de textes, le docteur McKitterick démontre l'utilisation qui peut en être faite afin de clarifier un certain nombre de questions dont les femmes et l'alphabetisation, la connaissance du droit canon et séculaire ainsi que la contribution anglaise à la culture religieuse de continent. Certaines études s'attachent plus spécifiquement à la paléographie et aux résultats de certains scriptoria; d'autres examinent avant tout le fait même de la production, la dissémination des textes et leurs implications quant à l'histoire intellectuelle et culturelle.

Carolingian Learning, Masters and Manuscripts John J. Contreni, 1992 The essays collected in this volume, including one hitherto unpublished one in a revised version and others now provided with additional notes, examine the intellectual and cultural life of early medieval western Europe from a number of different perspectives. The author argues that Carolingian learning must be seen within the general context of the Dynasty's attempt to reform society along Christian lines and not as a medieval renaissance or revival of classical culture. The efforts of Carolingian leaders and scholars often led to varied results, one of the hallmarks of intellectual and cultural life of the period. Several of the essays focus on prominent themes in 9th century intellectual history the arts Bible education the role of the Irish while others shed new light major Carolingian figures such as John Scottus Eriugena Martin Scottus Haimo of Auxerre and Hincmar of Laon The centrality of the manuscript to the reconstruction of intellectual life of the period is a theme common to all the essays

Historical Essays Freeman, 1872 Historical Essays Edward Augustus Freeman, 1872 The Formation of Christian Europe Owen M. Phelan, 2014-10-23 The Formation of Christian Europe analyses the Carolingians efforts to form a Christian Empire with the organizing principle of the sacrament of baptism Owen M Phelan argues that baptism provided the foundation for this society and offered a medium for the communication and the popularization of beliefs and ideas through which the Carolingian Renewal established the vision of an imperium christianum in Europe He analyses how baptism unified people theologically socially and politically and helped Carolingian leaders order their approaches to public life It enabled reformers to think in ways which were ideologically consistent publically available and socially useful Phelan also examines the influential court intellectual Alcuin of York who worked to implement a sacramental society through baptism The book finally looks at the dissolution of Carolingian political aspirations for an imperium christianum and how by the end of the ninth century political frustrations concealed the deeper achievement of the Carolingian Renewal

HISTORICAL ESSAYS EDWARD A

FREEMAN,1896 Iohannes Scottus Eriugena Gerd Van Riel,Carlos G. Steel,J. J. McEvoy,1996 This volume contains essays which shed light on numerous aspects of Eriugena s hermeneutics of Scripture The Study of the Bible in the Carolingian Era Celia Martin Chazelle,Burton Van Name Edwards,2003 This volume draws on recent scholarship which challenges the fifty year old assessment by Beryl Smalley that Carolingian commentaries lacked originality and were worthy simply for transmitted their sources to the more original scholars of the eleventh century The articles contained here show that the Carolingian period was a major turning point in the history of the medieval approach to the Bible Festival Essays for Pauline Alderman Burton L. Karson,1976 Carolingian Culture Rosamond McKitterick,1993-11-11 This volume of specially commissioned essays takes as its theme the legacy of Rome in Carolingian culture in eighth and ninth century Europe No such comprehensive survey of this kind exists in any language The book is the more unusual by departing from the customary stress on the concept of renewal to emphasize the enormous creativity and inventiveness of the Franks Carolingian culture provided the bedrock for the subsequent development of medieval European culture and this is demonstrated amply by essays that are planned as a series of introductions to the study of each topic The Frankish World, 750-900 Janet L. Nelson,1996-01-01 In these essays Carolingian government is explored through the workings of courts and assemblies through administrative texts through contemporaries historical writing through the rituals looking back to Roman times and reflecting the long continuity of administration in the areas constituting Francia that supplemented and reinforced social and political solidarities and through the ideological and material dilemmas confronted by ninth century churchmen the material wealth of the church a necessary precondition to its influence attracted a variety of private interests that inhibited its ability to perform its public duty Janet Nelson extends her perspective to include the settlement of disputes often without recourse to courts or to conflict and the application of law An introduction sets Francia in context and outlines its main features More recent work on gender history is represented here by studies of the political intellectual and religious activities of women in the Frankish world Although circumscribed the activities of women acting on their own will can be clearly detected While the male authorship of nearly all early medieval texts has usually been taken for granted Janet Nelson makes a case for the possibility that a number were written by women The London Mercury ,1929 The Periodical ,1927 Anniversary Essays in Mediaeval History Charles Holt Taylor,John L.
