Formulations Andrew Witt, 2022-01-11 An investigation of mathematics as it was drawn encoded imagined and interpreted by architects on the eve of digitization in the mid twentieth century In Formulations Andrew Witt examines the visual methodological and cultural intersections between architecture and mathematics The linkages Witt explores involve not the mystic transcendence of numbers invoked throughout architectural history but rather architecture s encounters with a range of calculational systems techniques that architects inventively retooled for design Witt offers a catalog of mid twentieth century practices of mathematical drawing and calculation in design that preceded and anticipated digitization as well as an account of the formal compendia that became a cultural currency shared between modern mathematicians and modern architects Witt presents a series of extensively illustrated biographies of method episodes that chart the myriad ways in which mathematics particularly the mathematical notion of modeling and drawing was spliced into the creative practice of design These include early drawing machines that mechanized curvature the incorporation of geometric maquettes theorems made flesh into the toolbox of design the virtualization of buildings and landscapes through surveyed triangulation and photogrammetry formal and functional topology stereoscopic drawing the economic implications of cubic matrices and a strange synthesis of the technological mineral and biological crystallographic design Trained in both architecture and mathematics Witt uses mathematics as a lens through which to understand the relationship between architecture and a much broader set of sciences and visual techniques Through an intercultural exchange with other disciplines he argues architecture adapted not only the shapes and surfaces of mathematics but also its values and epistemic ideals Francesca Woodman's Dark Gaze Claire Raymond, 2016-05-20 Focusing on the later work of the American photographer Francesca Woodman 1958 1981 Claire Raymond takes up the question of the disintegrative condition of the art she produced in the last year of her life Departing from the techniques of her earlier compositions Woodman worked in the diazotype process for many of these late pieces most importantly the monumental Blueprint for a Temple Raymond shows that through her use of diazotype a medium that breaks down when exposed to light Woodman created art that is both supremely evocative aesthetically and inherently unstable physically Woodman Raymond contends was imaginatively responding to the end of the durable image a historical reality acknowledged in the way her work plays the ephemeral and evanescent against the monumental and enduring Raymond focuses on the theoretical and the curatorial issues surrounding Woodman's diazotypes a thematic and practical distress that haunts much of her later art especially the artist's book and photo series Some Disordered Interior Geometries and Portrait of a Reputation Rather than conceiving of Woodman herself as fragile an artist chronicling and seeming to yearn for her own disappearance Raymond juxtaposes Woodman's career spanning documentation of her own image against other post war witnesses of trauma an artist standing in the museum ruins where she emerges most distinctly as a figure of postmodernity

Carrie Mae Weems Carrie Mae Weems, Thomas Piché, Thelma Golden, 1998 Carrie Mae Weems brings together for the first time five of this American photographer's most recent groups of work the Sea Islands Series 1991 92 the Africa Series 1993 From Here I Saw What Happened and I Cried 1995 96 Who What When Where 1998 and Ritual Revolution 1998 These series which rely mostly on photography and include other media such as sculpture are powerful expressions of Weems's provocative complex and often humorous social observations The themes that have dominated Weems's work over the course of her twenty year career identity race gender class the legacy of slavery the African diaspora are all highlighted here An artist and a cultural critic she has sought not only to criticize but also to confront the viewer and provoke a change in attitudes and attempt to get by in the city dock workers students bus riders petty criminals office workers immigrants queer and trans activists Set against the landscape of economic turmoil and environmental crises that shadowed the 1970s Witt highlights the urgent need for a historical perspective of cultural retrieval and counternarrative Extending into the present Lost Days Endless Nights advocates for an approach that actively embraces the works and projects that have been overlooked and evicted from the historical imaginary

Identity and the Arts in Diaspora Communities Thomas Turino, James Lea, 2004 The articles in this book illustrate the important connections between art identity and social formations that disciplines like anthropology and ethnomusicology have long taken for granted These case studies emphasize the importance of artistic practices and forms within diaspora formations in particular and within social and political movements more generally The contributors coming from different disciplinary backgrounds shed a unique light on the specific potentials of the different arts to create and represent diasporic subjectivities upon which the very existence of diasporas depend Amazon com Art in America Frank Jewett Mather, Frederic Fairchild Sherman, 2008 Critical Memory in the Fictions of Slavery Glenda Rossana Carpio, 2002 Bulletin University of Michigan.
