Cartography Selected Poems 1968 1998:

Cartography John Moritz, 2001 Poetry John Moritz's CARTOGRAPHY represents a stirring reverent joyous return to native place The real world and the represented world made continuous The Plains become a plenum The flat understood as full Tom Clark Finely tuned unobtrusively erudite John Moritz's poems have always struck me as exemplary in their unself-conscious gentleness This selection from thirty years work sails on into the twenty first century with flying colors Anselm Hollo The Flood & the Garden Dale Smith, 2002 Poetry Working solidly in the tradition of Duncan Williams Creeley and Kerouac Dale Smith offers a loosely assembled daybook which boldly mixes criticism speculation religious imagery and the mundane Smith whose provocative views of contemporary poetry and poetics have already brought him a good amount of attention moves seamlessly from brisk life descriptions Coffee cigarettes herb Sit on balcony look out through clearing smog to meditations on the two great Biblical sites of human transition the garden ignorance into knowledge and the flood vengeance into promise A substantial and pleasurable book by a fiery younger poet Rhetoric and Violence in Northern Ireland, 1968-98 P. Grant, 2001-09-19 During the Northern Irish Troubles of the past thirty years a war of words has accompanied and interpenetrated with the actual conduct of violence in highly complex ways This book considers how literature of the period engages and participates in this war of words It draws on a range of contemporary authors and on a variety of printed sources including journalists reports political speeches interviews memoirs pamphlets and autobiography The book places the Northern Ireland conflict within a broad European debate about the legitimate use of force and provides an original analysis of the inter relationship between language literature and violence First Intensity, 2003

International Who's Who in Poetry 2004 Europa Publications, 2003 Provides up to date profiles on the careers of leading and emerging poets Proposing on the Brooklyn Bridge Ginny Lowe Connors, 2003 Something We Have That They Don't Steve & Mark Clark & Ford, Steven H. Clark, 2004-04 There is some connexion I like the way the English spell it They're so clever about some things Probably smarter generally than we are Although there is supposed to be something We have that they don't don't ask me What it is John Ashbery Tenth Symphony Something We Have That They Don't presents a variety of essays on the relationship between British and American poetry since 1925 The essays collected here all explore some aspect of the rich and complex history of Anglo American poetic relations of the last seventy years Since the dawn of Modernism poets either side of the Atlantic have frequently inspired each other's developments from Frost's galvanizing advice to Edward Thomas to rearrange his prose as verse to Eliot's and Auden's enormous influence on the poetry of their adopted nations whichever Auden is Eliot once replied when asked if he were a British or an American poet I suppose I must be the other from the impact of Charles Olson and other Black Mountain poets on J H Prynne and the Cambridge School to the widespread influence of Frank O'Hara and Robert Lowell on a diverse range of contemporary British poets Clark and Ford's study aims to chart some of the currents of these ever shifting relations Poets discussed in these essays include John

Ashbery W H Auden Elizabeth Bishop T S Eliot Mark Ford Robert Graves Thom Gunn Lee Harwood Geoffrey Hill Michael Hofmann Susan Howe Robert Lowell and W B Yeats Poetry and sovereignty Philip Larkin remarked in an interview of 1982 are very primitive things these essays consider the ways in which even seemingly very unprimitive poetries can be seen as reflecting and engaging with issues of national sovereignty and self interest and in the process they pose a series of fascinating questions about the national narratives that currently dominate definitions of the British and American poetic traditions This innovative and exciting new collection will be of great interest to students and scholars of British and American poetry and comparative literature

Sharing the Past J.A. Weingarten, 2019-09-05 Sharing the Past is an unprecedentedly detailed account of the intertwining discourses of Canadian history and creative literature When social history emerged as its own field of study in the 1960s it promised new stories that would bring readers away from the elite writing of academics and closer to the everyday experiences of people Yet the academy s continued emphasis on professional distance and objectivity made it difficult for historians to connect with the experiences of those about whom they wrote and those same emphases made it all but impossible for non academic experts to be institutionally recognized as historians Drawing on interviews and new archival materials to construct a history of Canadian poetry written since 1960 Sharing the Past argues that the project of social history has achieved its fullest expression in lyric poetry a genre in which personal experiences anchor history Developing this genre since 1960 Canadian poets have provided an inclusive model for a truly social history that indiscriminately shares the right to speak authoritatively of the past

Slightly Magical Irish Poetry and the Long 1990s Lucy McDiarmid, 2025-10-31 Slightly Magical Irish Poetry and the Long 1990s is a major intervention in the field of Irish literary studies disrupting conventional divisions and interpretive categories mixing established poets and new ones and including poems in English and Irish McDiarmid argues convincingly for the importance of the ontologically ambiguous or slightly magical mode in recent Irish poetry She brings her wealth of knowledge in the field of Irish literary and cultural criticism to bear on subjects as whimsical as cats railroad reveries and hair and as serious as political critiques of both Irelands during the upheavals of the 1990s Drawing on the
