EFFECTIVE SCHOOLS RESEARCH BASE

The Effective Schools model of school reform is based on more than thirty years of research conducted nationally and internationally. This research identified schools in which students were mastering the curriculum at a higher rate and to a higher level than would be predicted based on students' family background, gender, and racial and ethnic identification. In addition, these schools showed steady increases in achievement over time, and the achievement gap between students from low socioeconomic and high socioeconomic backgrounds narrowed. These unusually effective schools were found to possess a set of common characteristics, called "correlates." The correlates have been shown to be as essential for equitable effectiveness today as they were thirty years ago and thus are building blocks used in the Effective Schools model. They are defined below.

Clear School Mission. In the effective school, there is a clearly-articulated school mission through which the staff shares an understanding of and commitment to instructional goals, priorities, assessment procedures and accountability. Staff accepts responsibility for all students achieving the school's essential curricular goals.

High Expectations for Success. In the effective school, there is a climate of expectation in which the staff believes and demonstrates that all students can attain mastery of the essential content of the curriculum. The staff members also believe that they have the capability to help all students achieve mastery of a challenging curriculum based on state and national standards.

Instructional Leadership. In the effective school, the principal acts as an instructional leader and also empowers and helps teachers to become collaborative leaders in continuous improvement. He or she effectively and persistently communicates the school's locally-developed mission to staff, parents, and students. The effective principal also understands and applies the characteristics of quality instruction and, assessment in implementing programs and evaluating classroom instruction.

Frequent and Appropriate Monitoring of Student Progress. In the effective school, student academic progress is measured regularly and rigorously by a variety of appropriate assessment procedures. The results of these assessments are used to improve both individual student performance and the instructional program. Student mastery of the adopted curriculum standards is determined through these assessments, and progress reports are made available to teachers, parents, and older students on a regular basis. In conjunction with other pertinent data about the student, teachers use these mastery data to make timely and targeted decisions about each
