Confessions Of A Fallen Standard Bearer:

Confessions of a Fallen Standard-Bearer Andreï Makine, 2011-10-28 They are virtual brothers Arkady and Alyosha young pioneers in Stalin's postwar world marching to the clarion call of socialism to the stirring beat of the drums The future they are assured is bright and beautiful But what then are those endless miles of barbed wire they encounter everywhere along their route This is the moving two generational tale of two families those of Yakov Zinger and Pyotr Yevdokimov fathers of the two young pioneers Inseparable the two men have been through the grueling war against the Germans with all its horror and senseless carnage Yakov or Yasha as he was known emerged physically intact but scarred forever from the moment he had been lifted out of a mountain of frozen bodies at a camp in liberated Poland Pyotr a skilled sniper who operated behind the German lines lost both his legs not at the hands of the Germans but as a result of an artillery mistake by his own forces Together in these postwar Cold War years the two families try to piece together their shattered lives

Confessions of a Fallen Standard-Bearer Andreï Makine, 2000 Young Pioneers march to the clarion call of socialism and the bright beautiful future that is to come This moving story tells of two families brought through war and all its carnage and horror How the families try to piece together their shattered lives is touchingly and convincingly depicted by a master storyteller

Authorizing Translation Michelle Woods, 2016-10-04 groundbreaking research on literary translation by a new generation of Literature and Translation studies scholars Investigates and moves forward currents of thinking in the discipline

World War II in Andreï Makine's Historiographic Metafiction Helena Duffy, 2018-04-17 Can it be ever possible to write about war in a work of fiction asks a protagonist of one of Makine's strongly metafictional and intensely historical novels Helena Duffy's World War II in Andre Makine's Historiographic Metafiction redirects this question at the Franco Russian author's fiction itself by investigating its portrayal of Soviet involvement in the struggle against Hitler To write back into the history of the Great Fatherland War its unmourned victims invalids Jews POWs women or starving Leningraders is the self acknowledged ambition of a novelist committed to the postmodern empowerment of those hitherto silenced by dominant historiographies Whether Makine succeeds at giving voice to those whose suffering jarred with the triumphalist narrative of the war concocted by Soviet authorities is the central concern of Duffy's book

Mnemosyne and Mars Manuel Bragança, Dominique Jeannerod, Peter Tame, 2014-01-13 This volume will be of interest to everyone seeking to understand the relationship between war as an historical narrative and its representation in the arts and in culture notably in literature film theatre and music More specifically it will be of the greatest interest to undergraduates postgraduates researchers and academics in a wide range of disciplines including literary studies film and drama studies music and history The Introduction by Jay Winter sets the context particularly with reference to the First World War while the Conclusion summarises the significance of the research undertaken and its value for future research This book will also have an impact on writers publishers and organizers of exhibitions museums memorial sites and monuments whose influence in the field of war and memory has been increasing steadily in recent years The imminent celebrations and commemorations pertaining to the Great War beginning in 2014 together with the imminence of the seventieth anniversary of the end of the Second World War in 2015 will provide additional stimuli to public attention in this area over the next few years

Contemporary Fiction in French Anna-Louise Milne,Russell Williams,2021-03-25 Our global literary field is fluid and exists in a state of constant evolution Contemporary fiction in French has become a polycentric and transnational field of vibrant and varied experimentation the collapse of the distinction between French and Francophone literature has opened up French writing to a world of new influences and interactions In this collection renowned scholars provide thoughtful close readings of a whole range of genres from graphic novels to crime fiction to the influence of television and film to analyse modern French fiction in its historical and sociological context Allowing students of contemporary French literature and culture to situate specific works within broader trends the volume provides an engaging global and timely overview of contemporary fiction writing in French and demonstrates how our modern literary world is more complex and diverse than ever before
