Configurationality in Hungarian Katalin E. Kiss, 2013-06-29 The purpose of this book is to argue for the claim that Hungarian sentence structure consists of a non configurational propositional component preceded by configurationally determined operator positions In the course of this various descriptive issues of Hungarian syntax will be analyzed and various theoretical questions concerning the existence and nature of non configurational languages will be addressed The descriptive problems to be examined in Chapters 2 and 3 center around the word order of Hungarian sentences Chapter 2 identifies an invariant structure in the apparently freely permutable Hungarian sentence pointing out systematic correspondences between the structural position interpretation and stressing and intonation of the different constituents Chapter 3 analyzes the word order phenomenon traditionally called sentence inter I twining of complex sentences and shows that the term in fact covers two different constructions a structure resulting from operator movement and a base generated pattern with differences in constituent order operator scope and V object agreement Chapter 4 deals interpretation case assignment with the coreference possibilities of reflexives reciprocals personal pro nouns and lexical NPs Finally Chapter 5 assigns structures to the two major sentence types containing an infinitive It analyzes infinitives with an AGR marker and a lexical subject focusing on the problem of case assignment to the subject as well as subject control constructions accounting for their often paradoxical simultaneously mono and biclausal behaviour in respect to word order operator scope and V object agreement

JACOBS U A HSK 9 2 E BOOK Linguistics in the Netherlands, 1991 Structures of Focus and Grammatical Relations

Jorunn Hetland, Valéria Molnár, 2013-02-06 The seven articles of this volume take up crucial aspects of information structure and grammatical form Special attention is paid to the definition of topic focus and contrast to the language specific devices for expressing different types of these information structural notions and to the typological characterisation of languages as to discourse configurability The investigation of grammatical relations includes the interplay between syntactic functions morphological case and thematic structure and the study of the functional and formal complexity of passive in Germanic languages

Syntax Joachim Jacobs, 1993 The New Comparative Syntax Liliane M. V. Haegeman, 1997 Drawing upon recent theoretical developments and empirical discoveries this book provides a coherent and comprehensive introduction to generative research in this field Dr Haegeman brings together ten chapters to illustrate the new approach to comparative grammar which has developed against the background of the principles and parameters model The contributors show how this framework guides empirical research by seeking to reveal the underlying grammatical basis for similarities and differences between languages and language groups Throughout the text attention is drawn to the ways in which empirical study feeds into theory construction raising new questions for the overall conceptual framework and sometimes providing new solution
