

1. Environmental Performance Review

The Environmental Performance Review (EPR) is a comprehensive assessment of an organization's environmental impact. It involves a detailed analysis of the organization's environmental policies, procedures, and performance. The EPR is a key tool for organizations to identify areas for improvement and to demonstrate their commitment to environmental sustainability. The review process typically involves a series of steps, including data collection, analysis, and reporting. The results of the EPR are used to inform the organization's environmental strategy and to guide its operations. The EPR is a critical component of an organization's environmental management system and is essential for ensuring that the organization is meeting its environmental obligations and contributing to a sustainable future.

philosophy anthropology political science history geography economics psychology and others Motivation, Educational Policy and Achievement Sam Carr, 2015-12-14 Motivation Educational Policy and Achievement seeks to theorise and critique current trends in education through the lens of key ideas from motivational theory Its purpose is to argue that current educational trends on a macro level are a significant threat to the provision of classroom practices seeking to create an educational environment that motivational theorists would argue is best placed to develop motivational equality optimal motivation and wellbeing Linking major contemporary theories of motivation to wider educational and political debate this unique resource will bring about two major benefits it will vocalise and mobilise the substantial research evidence from motivational theory in order to ensure that it contributes more explicitly to a critique of current neoliberal trends and motivation researchers will be better positioned to move the theory forward in relation to what is happening in the real world of education Areas covered include developing a more critical space in relation to the field of motivational psychology and contemporary educational policy linking motivational theory to education policy and broader social and political structures the neoliberal educational landscape an overview of achievement goal theory and self determination theory Motivation Educational Policy and Achievement is a wake up call for educational practitioners and policy makers and essential reading for all advanced students and researchers in the fields of educational psychology and educational research A Philosophical Analysis of Federal Vocational Education Legislation from 1900-1984 Christine J. Kate, 1993 Harvard Educational Review ,1968 Advances in Teacher Education, Volume 3 Martin Haberman, Julie Backus, 1987-01-01 Educational Leadership ,1943 Narrative and the Politics of Identity Phillip L. Hammack, 2010-12-28 Since the late nineteenth century Jews and Arabs have been locked in an intractable battle for national recognition in a land of tremendous historical and geopolitical significance While historians and political scientists have long analyzed the dynamics of this bitter conflict rarely has an archeology of the mind of those who reside within the matrix of conflict been attempted This book not only offers a psychological analysis of the consequences of conflict for the psyche it develops an innovative compelling and cross disciplinary argument about the mutual constitution of culture and mind through the process of life story construction But the book pushes boundaries further through an analysis of two peace education programs designed to fundamentally alter the nature of young Israeli and Palestinian life stories Hammack argues that these popular interventions rooted in the idea of prejudice reduction through contact and the cultivation of cosmopolitan identities are fundamentally flawed due to their refusal to deal with the actual political reality of young Israeli and Palestinian lives and their attempt to construct an alternative narrative of great hope but little resonance for Israelis and Palestinians Grounded in over a century of literature that spans the social sciences Hammack s analysis of young Israeli and Palestinian lives captures the complex dynamic relationship among politics history and identity and offers a provocative and audacious proposal for psychology and peace education A School Divided Grace Pung Guthrie, 1985 Books in Series ,1985 Vols for 1980 issued in three parts Series
