Corinth Panayotis Coutsoumpos, 2015-01-30 Rich in content and meaning Paul s letter to the Corinthians is an important element in the study of the social and theological issues of early Christian teachings This new work outlines how the letter to Corinthians underscores the role of Pauline Christianity in shaping relationships within the Christian congregation and provides a unique picture of a new growing church in a Greco Roman social environment Paul and the Corinthians: Studies on a Community in Conflict Trevor J. Burke, Keith Elliott, 2014-04-09 This volume has 1 and 2 Corinthians as its main focus where the various contributors address significant aspects of text language background theology and exegesis The first part of the volume deals with the issues of textual criticism and traditions available to Paul while the second section is interdisciplinary in nature and integrates different methodologies such as social scientific and rhetorical criticism in order to provide new insights into the text The third and longest section addresses the varied theological problems which the community raised with Paul including sexual matters the timing of the resurrection the resurrection body authority and headship soteriology and the question of Paul s faithfulness and integrity The final section concentrates on the identity of Paul s opponents his visions and apologetics Conflict in Corinth Charles Kevin Robertson, 2001 The apostle Paul faced a double dilemma in the first century church in Corinth although there appears to have been a divisive spirit in the congregation there was little conflict between the church and its relational environment Conflict in Corinth examines the situation in Corinth and Paul s response to it by utilizing principles and imagery from systems thinking Inadequate group boundaries and confusion regarding the unique identity of the Christian community gave rise to numerous seemingly unrelated problems As illustrated throughout the work Paul used family relationships and images to redefine the church system and reconfigure its internal relationships

Corinth Amy Lorraine Wordelman,1983 The state of the Christian community at Corinth as portrayed in the Apostle Paul s first letter to that congregation can be characterized by one word conflict Torn by dissensions and quarreling the community to which Paul writes appears to be divided in loyalties This divisiveness occasioned at least in part Paul s correspondence with the congregation in his correspondence Paul speaks to the Corinthians seeking t oadmonish them and to put right the disorderly situation

Eloquence and the Proclamation of the Gospel in Corinth Brian K. Peterson,1998 Exploiting the correspondence that documents the long term relationship between the apostle Paul and one of his congregations offers a longitudinal study of how his advice differed in various contexts Focuses on the tension between the positions he takes regarding the congregation s relationship to him and other spiritual leaders and the possibility of their evaluating apostolic ministry Prepared as a Ph D dissertation for the Union Theological Seminary in Virginia in 1997 No index Annotation copyrighted by Book News Inc Portland OR Early Christianity and Classical Culture Abraham J. Malherbe,2003 This volume contains 28 essays in honor of Abraham J Malherbe whose work has been especially influential in exploring modes of cultural interaction between early Jews and Christians and their Graeco Roman neighbours Following an introductory essay on the problems inherent to such comparative studies in the history of New Testament scholarship the essays are grouped into five topic areas Graphos semantics and writing Ethos ethics and moral characterization Logos rhetoric and literary expression Ethnos self definition and acculturation and Nomos law and normative values Some key examples are studies dealing with The Greek Idea of Divine Nature and its relation to the Divine Man tradition Compilation of Letters in Cicero s collection Radical Altruism in Paul Greek Ideas of Concord and Cosmic Harmony in 1 Clement The Rhetorical Use of Friendship Motifs in Galatians in comparison with Second Sophistic Orators Wills and Testaments in Graeco Roman perspective

The Unity of the Corinthian Correspondence David R. Hall,2003 The thesis of this book is that 1 and 2 Corinthians are closely related that Paul faces the same opponents in both letters that the letter written with many tears referred to in 2 Corinthians is 1 Corinthians and that there is no need to posit an intermediate visit or letter between the two canonical letters Throughout the two letters Paul implements a consistent pastoral strategy and an understanding of this strategy explains the difference in tone between various sections of the two letters There is no need for theories of partition
