Confronting Environments Local Environmental Understanding In A Globalizing World:

Confronting Environments James G. Carrier, 2004-10-17 6 x 9      Computing Our Way to Paradise? Robert Rattle, 2010-01-16 Rattle's new book challenges key assumptions concerning the role of Internet and communication technologies ICTs in globalization processes The author argues that while globalization is predicated upon a strong extensive and interconnected global ICT network of products processes and services the real environmental and health benefits remain far from certain ICTs have been promoted as the next economic wave with the potential to generate jobs wealth and prosperity to surpass that of the industrial era It is assumed the environmental impacts will be negligible or even beneficial in this shift towards a service economy Rattle investigates these current and expected trends in ICTs and their potential contribution to sustainable development His book is an indispensable overview for researchers and instructors in globalization Internet communication technologies and environmental anthropology or sociology as well as a resource for policy makers in environmental protection sustainable development sustainable consumption and the social role of science and technology      War and Nature Jurgen Brauer, 2009-10-15 This book takes a comprehensive look at the environmental costs of wars around the world since the end of World War II drawing on case studies from Vietnam the Persian Gulf Africa and other regions      Global Capitalism and Climate Change Hans A. Baer, 2012-06-28 Many progressive scholars particularly in the social sciences have increasingly come to acknowledge that anthropogenic climate change constitutes yet another contradiction of global capitalism This book constitutes an effort to develop a critical social science of climate change one that posits its roots in global capitalism with its emphasis on profit making a treadmill of production and consumption heavy reliance on fossil fuels and commitment to ongoing economic expansion It explores the systemic changes necessary to create a more socially just and sustainable world system that would possibly start to move humanity toward a safer climate and discusses the role of a burgeoning climate movement in this effort      Rethinking Environmental History Joan Martinez-Alier, Alf Hornborg, J. R. McNeill, 2007-01-18 This exciting new reader in environmental history provides a framework for understanding the relations between ecosystems and world systems over time Alf Hornborg J R McNeill and Joan Martinez Alier have brought together a group of the prominent social scientists historians and geographical scientists to provide a historical overview of the ecological dimension of global economic processes Readers are challenged to integrate studies of the Earth system with studies of the world system and to reconceptualize the relations between human beings and their environment as well as the challenges of global sustainability      The World's Scavengers Martin Medina, 2007-05-03 Medina tells us that up to 2% of the urban population in developing countries survives by salvaging materials from waste for recycling which represents up to 64 million scavengers in the world today Despite these numbers we know little about the impact of scavenging on global capitalism development The author examines its historical evolution and its linkages with formal and informal sector productive activities in capitalist and non capitalist societies in case studies from Mexico Brazil Colombia Argentina Egypt the Philippines and India His new book radically alters popular perceptions on scavenging demonstrating that many widely held beliefs are wrong scavenging is not primarily the activity of the poor nor is it a strictly marginal activity the economic impact of scavenging is significant and can increase industrial competitiveness and scavenging can be compatible with a sustainable waste management system Scavenging represents an adaptive response to poverty yet at the same time it can be a resource to cities whose contributions should be recognized and understood The Journal of Environment & Development ,2006 Global Visions, Local Landscapes Lisa L. Gezon,2006 Gezon argues that local events continuously redefine and challenge global processes of land use and land degradation Her ethnographic study of Antankarana identifying rice farmers and cattle herders in northern Madagascar weaves together an analysis of remotely sensed images of land cover over time with ethnographies of situated negotiations between human actors Her book will be particularly valuable to researchers and students in anthropology geography sociology and environmental studies and those involved in conservation and resource management World in Motion Gary M. Kroll,Richard H. Robbins,2009 The essays collected in World in Motion all address the same issue The global paradox that modern prosperity has entailed extreme environmental degradation Gary M Kroll and Richard H Robbins present readings covering all principal viewpoints on this matter from the neoliberal belief that environmental and social problems can be fixed through a growing economy to the critics of globalization who equate growth with environmental degradation This book asks an important question Can we simply accelerate growth under the assumption that increased prosperity and new technologies will allow us to reverse environmental damage Or do we need to transform our modes of living radically to maintain the health of the world around us Communities and Conservation J Peter Brosius,Anna Lowenhaupt Tsing,Charles Zerner,2005-07-21 The distinguished environmentalists in this collection offer an in depth analysis and call to advocacy for community based natural resource management CBNRM Their overview of this transnational movement reveals important links between environmental management and social justice agendas for sustainable use of resources by local communities In this volume leaders who have been instrumental in creating and shaping CBNRM describe their model programs the countermapping movement and collective claims to land and resources legal strategies for gaining rights to resources and territories biodiversity conservation and land stabilization priorities and environmental justice and minority rights This book will be of value to instructors practitioners and activists in anthropology cultural geography environmental justice environmental policy political ecology indigenous rights conservation biology and CBNRM Facing the Global Environment Challenge ,1995 Mistaken Place Mary Elizabeth Anderson,2009 Current Publications in Legal and Related Fields ,2004 Global Perspectives: the Human Dimension, Part 1 Margaret Stimmann Branson,1977 Reserve Labor Genese Marie Sodikoff,2005 American Book Publishing Record ,2003 Troubled Natures Peter Wynn Kirby,2011 The author looks at two Tokyo neighborhoods comparing environmental consciousness and conduct in communities facing specific toxic threats real or perceived In each fieldsite the tension between lofty rhetoric and daily practices helps highlight the practical ambivalence of Japanese environmental consciousness Waste practices and ideas of pollution in Tokyo tie clearly into broader social issues such as exclusionary practices emergent lifestyle changes recycling efforts and novel forms of energy production Throughout waste and environmental health problems in Tokyo collide against diverse cultural elements linked to nature s uneasy relations between animals and humans native conceptions of the foreign and the polluted reproductive challenges in the face of a plunging fertility rate and changing attitudes toward illness and health

Managing the Globalized Environment Tiia Riitta Granfelt, 1999 Considers the complexity of local global interaction in environmental management and understanding resource management as a socio cultural concept It observes the urgent need to combine different perspectives in environmental management at different levels in separate traditions and disciplines and cultural and organizational experiences
