Women, Relationships & Criminal Justice Sarah Waite, Natalie Rutter, 2026-01-15 Women who have been criminalised by the state typically encounter gendered experiences and challenges and are affected by complex and intersecting layers of system failure, marginalisation, and stigma. Bringing together diverse perspectives from research, lived experience, and frontline practice, this collection considers the central role of relationships for criminalised women, including motherhood, family, peer, romantic, and professional relationships. The collection offers critical insights into women's relationships with the often oppressive system which they are required to navigate. Through different forms of expression, the collection allows us to hear a range of voices that offer alternative visions for the present and future. It makes a powerful case for policies and practices that are more responsive to women's distinct needs within the criminal justice system.

We Are Our Mothers' Daughters Cokie Roberts, 2009-04-07 In this tenth anniversary edition of We Are Our Mothers' Daughters, renowned political commentator Cokie Roberts once again examines the nature of women's roles through the revealing lens of her personal experience. From mother to mechanic, sister to soldier, Roberts reveals how much progress has now been made and how much further we have to go. Updated and expanded to include a diverse new cast of women, this collection of essays offers tremendous insight into the opportunities and challenges that women encounter today. In a series of new profiles and revealing updates, Roberts reflects upon the number of female achievers who have graced the public stage in the past decade. In addition to the illuminating and sometimes surprising history of women in a variety of fields, several chapters also introduce us to some of the fascinating women she has encountered during the course of her reporting career, including Hillary Clinton, Nancy Pelosi, Laura Bush, Billie Jean King, Michelle Rhee, and Dorothy Height. Looking into the future, Roberts focuses on the question of "What next?" exploring how several women, including herself, have begun to define themselves in the next stages of their lives. She also relates moving

In 1976 Adrienne Rich wrote in Of Woman Born: Motherhood as Experience and Institution that the cathexis between mother and daughter essential distorted misused is the great unwritten story. In the quarter century since Rich wrote those words the topic of mothers and daughters has emerged as a salient issue in feminist scholarship. Using women's writing, film, feminist theory and personal experience contributors to Mothers and Daughters explore how the mother-daughter relationship is represented and experienced as a site of empowerment. This volume will offer readers an important and welcome chapter in the story of the complex relationship that is a part of nearly every woman's life.
