Confident Consumer:

Information Obligations and Disinformation of Consumers Gert Straetmans, 2019-09-05 This book focuses on recent developments in consumer law specifically addressing mandatory disclosures and the topical problem of information overload It provides a comparative analysis based on national reports from countries with common law and civil law traditions in Asia America and Europe and presents the reports in the form of chapters that have been drafted on the basis of a questionnaire and which use the same structure as the questionnaire to allow them to be easily compared The book starts with an analysis of the basic assumptions underlying the current consumer protection models and examines whether and how consumer models adapt to the new market conditions The second part addresses the information obligations themselves first highlighting the differences in the reported countries before narrowing the analysis down to countries with a general pre contractual information duty particularly the transparency requirements that often come with such a duty The next part examines recent developments in the law on food labelling commercial practices and unfair contract terms in order to identify whether similar traits can be found in European and non European jurisdictions The fourth part of the book focuses on specific information obligations in the financial services and e commerce sectors discussing the fact that legislators are experimenting with different forms of summary disclosures in these sectors The final part provides a critical appraisal of the recent developments in consumer information obligations addressing the question of whether the multiple criticisms from behavioural sciences necessitate abandonment or refinement of current consumer information models in favour of new more adequate forms of consumer protection and providing suggestions

The Images of the Consumer in EU Law Dorota Leczykiewicz, Stephen Weatherill, 2016-01-28 This book consists of contributions exploring from different perspectives the images of the consumer in EU law The images of the consumer form the foundation for various EU policies more or less directly oriented towards the goal of consumer protection The purpose of the volume is to establish what visions of the consumer there are in different contexts of EU law whether they are consistent and whether EU law s engagement with consumer related considerations is sincere or merely instrumental to the achievement of other goals The chapters discuss how consumers should be protected in EU contract competition free movement and trade mark law They reflect on the limits of the consumer empowerment rationale as the basis for EU consumer policy The chapters look also at the variety of concerns consumers might have including the cost of goods and services access to credit ethical questions of consumption the challenges of excessive choice and the possibility to influence the content of regulatory measures and explore the significance of these issues for the EU s legislative and judicial process
