Heart Failure Stuart Katz MD, 2013-06-21 Clinical practice consensus guidelines for management of heart failure are available from the American Heart Association American College of Cardiology Heart Failure Society of America Canadian Cardiovascular Society and European Society of Cardiology The guidelines from these organizations based on evidence from clinical trials and expert agreement are largely concordant and provide useful information for practitioners Yet the organization of the guidelines may confound efforts by a practitioner to determine which specific intervention or combination of interventions are most appropriate for an individual patient As part of the Oxford American Cardiology Library Heart Failure utilizes the staging of heart failure proposed by the ACC AHA guidelines as a framework to develop a systematic approach for diagnosis and treatment across a broad spectrum of clinical presentations Each chapter addresses a different stage in the progression of heart failure and provides a patient centered description of the appropriate diagnostic and treatment options for that setting Each chapter also incorporates discussion of the diagnosis and treatment options for both low ejection fraction heart failure patients and preserved ejection fraction heart failure patients of which the latter group comprises at least 50% of all heart failure cases in clinical practice Heart Failure restructures the information in the clinical guidelines to a format that is more accessible and clinically useful to practitioners

Congestive Heart Failure J. Morganroth,E. Neil Moore,2012-12-06 About 2 5 million individuals have congestive heart failure in the United States with over 400 000 new cases expected annually Congestive heart failure also is one of the commonest causes for hospital admissions accounting for over 5 million hospital days per year Despite the early recognition of this condition and active medical research into both mechanisms and therapy prognosis continues to remain dismal with less than a 50% expected five year survival In the last decade we have seen many new medical and therapeutic options for patients with congestive heart failure which extend beyond the use of bed rest sodium restriction digitalis and diuretics These include vasodilators of a variety of types including the angiotensin conventional enzyme ACE inhibitors Also many new inotropes are under active investigation both in oral and intravenous forms In March of 1984 a survey of over 5000 physicians was performed under the auspices of the American Heart Association reported in JAOC 8 966 1986 That survey showed that there was no universally accepted definition for congestive heart failure and that a wide spectrum of diagnostic criteria for this common condition existed even among academic cardiologists. There was no clear standard as to even the most basic treatment of congestive heart failure. For example, exercise restriction was recommended by 19% of physicians, 31% recommended no change in activity, and 50% either light exercise or an exercise conditioning program.
