Atkinson, 1987 Man has won copper from the earth for about 10 000 years As pure metal it could be hammered into weapons or tools and the accidental discovery of smelting and alloying led to harder and more durable materials such as bronze and brass Copper is found in almost two hundred minerals many of them beautifully coloured and highly prized by collectors Today copper is mined all over the world in underground mines and vast open pits It is a very versatile metal it resists corrosion is malleable and ductile and is an excellent conductor of heat and electricity In the British Isles copper has been mined since pre Roman times Two areas dominated copper production during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries Devon and Cornwall in south west England and Parys Mountain in Anglesey were the greatest copper producers in the world The spectacular ruins and the scars can still be seen the changes have been minimal 62 walks are described Some need simple climbing skills but most are straightforward In addition two routes are described to the tops of Elbruz the highest mountain in Europe This is the first modern book of its kind by Russian authors There are some very easy routes across the Main Range following good wide paths but the fact is that the central part from the Klukhor to Mamisonky passes cannot offer such a boon It does not mean you have to climb to get over the Range but you should not expect a comfortable path up to the saddle and you have to be ready for scree grass and snow slopes Not a big hardship considering the reward in calm and seclusion so rare nowadays
