English Delftware Drug Jars Briony Hudson, 2006 Tin glazed earthenware had been known in the Middle East from around 1000BC However it only became common in northern Europe during the 16th century when it was known as majolica or Delftware as a consequence of the large quantity manufactured in Delft Holland Delftware soon became widely used by apothecaries for the storage of powders ointments syrups oils and confections and such drug jars were often highly decorated or labelled to indicate their contents or commemorate events Manufacture of Delftware drug jars began at certain locations in London in about 1570 until about 1780 by which time tin glazed earthenware began to be replaced by creamware the forerunner of our modern white earthenware English Delftware drug jars were expensive highly prized objects and because of their cost largely remained the property of London based apothecaries However in the British Isles Delftware drug jars were also produced in Liverpool Glasgow Dublin and Limerick Today English Delftware drug jars are highly collectable and rare Fine examples often sell on the open market for in excess of pound 10 000 Most of the ceramics are highly decorated with blue coloured designs However multicoloured jars are also known though are very rare Several museums and individuals hold collections of Delftware drug jars though the collection in the museum of the RPSGB is regarded as the finest in the UK and is of international significance Until relatively recently the RPSGB collection had not been fully photographed and catalogued A comprehensive survey or catalogue of the collection has not previously been published This new title will include an introductory chapter by the Editor along with a chapter on the history of English Delftware Drug jars by William Jackson a pharmacist historian noted as one of the UK's leading authorities on drug jars An additional chapter from archaeologists at the Museum of London will give an overview of Delftware manufacture in London Since fragments of Delftware are readily identifiable and datable the importance of Delftware in dating archaeological excavations will also be described These three chapters will be illustrated with 220 individual colour photos of drug jars from the RPSGB collection Each photograph will be systematically captioned with relevant text describing the drug jar its manufacture date etc Catalogue of the Library of the National Gallery of Canada: Brit - Draf Ottawa. National Gallery of Canada. Library, 1973 Turning Houses into Homes Clive Edwards, 2017-05-15 From the earliest times people have striven to turn their houses into homes through the use of decoration and furnishings stimulating in turn a major commercial sector dedicated to offering the products and services essential to feed the ever changing dictates of domestic fashion Whilst there is plentiful evidence to show that these phenomena can be traced to medieval times it is arguable that the eighteenth century witnessed the birth of a widespread and sophisticated consumer society With a comparatively wealthy and socially mobile society eighteenth century Britain proved to be a fertile ground for ideas of home improvement and beautification which were to persist to the present day Turning Houses into Homes not only maps the history changes development and structure of the retail furnishing industry in Britain over three centuries but also examines the relationships between the retailer and the consumer looking at how retailers helped stimulate and shape the demand of their customers Whilst work has been done on specific aspects of the home very little has been written on the interaction between the retailer and consumer and the pressures brought to bear on them by issues such as gender education status symbolism taste decoration hygiene comfort and entertainment As such this book offers a valuable conjunction of retail history and consumption practices which are examined through a multi disciplinary approach to explore both their intimate connections and their wider roles in society
