Develop Your Management Potential:

Developing Managerial Skills in Engineers and Scientists Michael K. Badawy, 1995-04-14 If you're an engineer or scientist who has suddenly been thrust into the world of management you may find yourself thinking that managing people is more of a challenge than your former highly technical job. Veteran management consultant Michael K. Badawy couldn't agree more. He says "The primary problems of engineering and R practical mechanisms that strengthen technologists management skills issues in career planning and development decision making and evaluation of engineering and R and strategic thinking and planning skills." Badawy's down to earth language and practical examples bridge the gap between theory and practice making it a snap for both the novice and the initiated to translate theory into everyday solutions. Plus you'll find career guidance as well as up to the minute coverage of current managerial training programs. A bounty of tables charts and diagrams further enhance Developing Managerial Skills in Engineers and Scientists making this volume indispensable to all those technical professionals interested in becoming 21st century managers.

Managing Projects in Health and Social Care Vivien Martin, 2005-06-29 Managing Projects in Health and Social Care is designed for anyone who is asked to manage a public services project but who lacks the experience or training to feel confident in this role. The book shows how to use project management techniques to ensure that your project will be successful. The key dimensions discussed are budget time feasibility planning scheduling implementation evaluation. The book includes many examples to show how people have used the techniques described in health and care settings. There are clear explanations of how and when to use each technique and consideration of the differences between large and complex projects and smaller less complicated ones. It is a valuable resource for anyone who wants to be sure that their project will make a useful contribution to improvement of health and care services.
